GOVERNOR DONEHEY INAUGURATED

ABSENCE OF POMP OR SPLENDOR WAS FEATURE OF CEREMONIES

Others Inducted Into Office Were:

Auditor of State, Jos. T. Tracy;
Secretary of State, Thad H. Brown; State Treasurer, Harry S. Day and Attorney General C. C. Crabbe--Reception.

Governor A. Vic Donahey was inaugurated at noon Monday for a second term as chief executive of the state of Ohio and at the same time other state officials were inducted into office.

For the most part the scene was familiar to the participants, all but one of them having taken part in a similar affair two years ago.

Charles H. Lewis, lieutenant governor, being the only newcomer in the official family. The others: Joseph T. Tracy, state auditor; Harry S. Day, state treasurer; Thad H. Brown, secretary of state, and C. C. Crabbe, attorney general, having each served one term.

In accordance with the wishes of Governor Donahey, the inaugural ceremonies were without pomp or show. The whole thing had been planned with business-like simplicity and efficiency that was but a minor interruption of the day's work for all those who had any part in the proceedings.

The inauguration took place at noon before a joint session of the senate and house of representatives in the hall of the capitol, rather in their own offices.

Lieutenant Governor Bloom presided over the joint session and was assisted by Harry D. Silver, speaker of the house and Rev. E. S. Matheny, senate chaplain.

The procession started when the members of the supreme court were escorted to the house. After the judges had been seated, the governor's party entered from the lounge room of the house. Leading the procession was Governor Donahey, flanked on his right by Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson, the lieutenant governor elect, the secretary of state, the attorney general, the state treasurer and the state auditor.

When the party had aligned itself in front of the rostrum, the oaths of office were administered by justices of the supreme court. Chief Justice C. T. Marshall swore in Governor Donahey; Justice J. E. Robinson, Attorney General Crabbe; Justice E. S. Mathias, Secretary of State Brown; Justice T. A. Jones, Auditor Tracy, and Justice Robert H. Day, State Treasurer Harry S. Day.

Governor Donahey took the oath last and immediately launched into the delivery of his inaugural address which was broadcast by the Erner-Hopkins company, of Columbus.

After reading his message, Governor Donahey, accompanied by his military aides, returned to the state executive offices. At two o'clock an informal reception was conducted by Governor Donahey in the rotunda of the State Capitol. Claude Meeker was chairman of a committee of Columbus business and professional men who arranged for the reception.

The inaugural ceremonies in the hall of the house were witnessed by state officials and guests from the floor of the house and the first two rows of the house gallery were reserved for families of state officials.

Coincident with the inauguration of Governor Donahey, the state's Republican electors met and cast the vote of the state for President Coolidge. Former Justice of the supreme court of Ohio, was chosen president; J. W. Huffman, secretary, and Walter Rogers sergeant-at-arms.

J. W. Myers of Butler county, oldest member was named to be messenger to carry the official ballot to Washington.

EAGLES' SHOW INDOOR CIRCUS BIG SUCCESS

Ten Day Carnival Closed Saturday Night With Many Shekels Added to Aerie's Exchequer.

The circus put on by the Milton Holland Amusement company at Memorial hall for ten days closed Saturday evening at twelve o'clock.

The company put on the show under a contract made with the committee of the Eagles' aerie, and it was given in order to raise enough money to wipe out a deficit in the athletic division and also to provide a little nest egg for the future. The contract was signed by individuals, and not by the lodge, as had been reported.

The entertainment was a clean, musical treat. The members of the company treated everybody civilly, and were as nice a bunch of performers as ever came to this city, and even tho they get some of our hoarded shekels we had a run for our money, and no bad taste was left in our mouths.

The committee's contract was on a fifty-fifty basis, as the aerie gets one-half of the receipts.

Mr. Graham was a carpenter by occupation and this city has been his home for the major portion of his life. He is a veteran of the Civil war, having served in Company A, 114th O. V. I. Among the out of town guests at the celebration was H. E. Graham of Toledo.

New Radio Ship Compass Proves of Great Value

Washington.--Tests of a new radio ship compass on the last voyage of the shipping board liner President Pierce gave signal proof of its great value to navigation. The master of the President Pierce reported to the radio division of the board that when his ship was leaving Hongkong for Shanghai in typhoon weather he lost his bearings and was enabled to find the position of his ship through a radio signal sent by the President Hayes, then in sight of the Heisha light. The use of the device then and later on the same trip saved the President Pierce 24 hours, the skipper reported, and thus more than paid for its installation.

McCoy Knocks Out Fellow Prisoner; Restores Memory

Los Angeles, Cal.--The amazing story of how Kid McCoy, held in jail here for the murder of Theresa Mora, antique dealer, struck a fellow prisoner and restored his memory, was told here when Morris Lebowitz, amnesia victim, identified himself as a wealthy Baltimore insurance broker after recovering from McCoy's punch. The former pugilist was boxing in a cell with Ed Montijo, condemned murderer, when Montijo ducked a vicious blow which struck another prisoner, booked as "Allen Azen," on the right temple. "Azen" went down for a long count and when revived his memory was restored and he identified himself as the Baltimore broker, missing since last March, jail officials said.

N. & W. TRAIN IS WRECKED AT ASHVILLE

Nine Cars of Merchandise Were Derailed -- Tracks Were Strewn With Wreckage.

Southbound Norfolk & Western thru freight train, known as No. 94, was wrecked at Dix, a siding north of Ashville Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock. Nine cars of merchandise were derailed, seven of which were so badly wrecked that they had to be destroyed. The cars were refrigerators and contained cured meats, potatoes and merchandise of various kinds.

The wreck was caused by a draw bar of one of the cars pulling out which caused the cars to pile up in one of the worst wrecks that had occurred on the road for nearly a year. Both tracks were strewn with wreckage and all traffic was blocked at this point until nearly 1 o'clock this morning.

Wrecking trains from the Baltimore & Ohio road at Chillicothe and Norfolk and Western road at Columbus assisted in clearing the wreck.

The road is doing an unusually heavy freight business at present. Eighty trains passed over the road in twenty-four hours.

KANSAS GOVERNOR ARRESTED.

(United Press)

Fish Are Shoveled From River During Smelt Run

Kelso, Wash.--Smelt started running into the Cowlitz river from the Columbia recently. Catching these miniature fish is now the event of the winter, farmers shoveling them up by the scoopful, filling barrels and boxes; women using lace curtain nets at the end of portiere poles; boys and girls with father's auto cover for a seine and the professional fisher with his linen thread nets. These fish, about seven to nine inches long, run in schools, often filling the river from bank to bank. They are en route upstream to spawn after which the smelt return to the ocean and, like the fur seal, spend a long period far from human eyes. The food value of the smelt is what makes it so attractive, being canned in glass jars, pickled in spices, salted and dried.

H. F. BROWN INSTANTLY KILLED WHEN TRACTION CAR HIT AUTO

Sideswiped by Another Machine and Thrown on Track in Front of Speeding Train--Represented Fayette County in the Ohio Legislature for Four Years--Well Known in This County.

Harrison F. Brown, aged 51, of 223 South Monroe avenue Columbus, prominent business man and a former member of the house of representatives of the Ohio general assembly from Fayette county, was instantly killed at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening in Columbus when the automobile in which he was returning home from Washington C. H. was sideswiped by another machine and was knocked over on the Indianapolis, Columbus and Eastern tracks in the path of a speeding traction car. The Hudson machine in which Mr. Brown was riding was a total wreck.

Harry Moore, of 397 Dana avenue, Columbus, the driver of the other car, received severe lacerations of the head and body, but was able to go to his home after receiving medical attendance.

Mr. Moore lost control of his machine when he neared the crossing and was blinded by the glaring lights of the traction car. Mr. Brown was driving toward the city, while the car of Mr. Moore was going in the opposite direction. The Moore car sideswiped the Brown machine, sending it careening in front of the traction car. The automobile was struck with such force that it was dragged fully a hundred feet before the crew could stop the car.

Mr. Brown was returning home from a public sale at the farm of his wife, near Washington C. H. He was a salesman for the McCarkey Cash Register company, of Alliance. He was an Elk, a Thirty-second degree Mason and a Shriner. He served in the Ohio legislature from 1919 to 1923. He was well known in this county and was the organizer of the Fayette County Supply company at Washington C. H.

The deceased was a first cousin of Prosecuting Attorney Meeker Terwilliger. Mrs. W. S. Gearhart, Clark K. Hunsicker, Trustin P. Brown and B. F. Yates, of this city. He leaves his wife, who was before her marriage, Miss Florence Seltzer, of Fayette county; two sons, William, aged 15, and David, aged five years, and one daughter, Mary, aged 18.

Of his immediate family, one sister Mrs. John Morris, of Washington C. H., is living. He was a son of Wesley and Elizabeth Harrison Brown, late of Fayette county.

A short service will be held at the late home, 233 South Monroe avenue, Columbus, Wednesday morning at ten o'clock Standard Central time. Rev. W. D. Cherrington will officiate.

The full funeral services will be held at the Grace M. E. church at Washington C. H., Wednesday at one o'clock Standard Central time. Rev. Cherrington will officiate. The interment will be in the cemetery at Bloomington.

The deceased was a direct descendant of three presidents; Presidents William Henry Harrison, Benjamin Harrison and James K. Polk. Mr. Brown's mother was Elizabeth Harrison, who was a direct descendant of the two Harrisons. His father was a direct descendant of President James K. Polk's mother, James Knox.

KELLOGG TO SUCCEED C. E. HUGHES

As Secretary of State, C. B. Warren Appointed Attorney General to Succeed Harlan F. Stone

Washington, D. C. (United Press) Charles E. Hughes will retire as secretary of state the fourth of March, next, and Frank B. Kellogg, now ambassador to Great Britain, will succeed him. An official announcement to this effect was made at the White House Saturday night and created a genuine sensation. While there have been frequent rumors lately that Mr. Hughes was considering retiring to private life upon completion of four years in office they have been generally denied and the capital was wholly unprepared for such an epochal change in the cabinet.

Announcement was also made late Saturday by President Coolidge that he had selected former Ambassador Warren to succeed Attorney General Harlan F. Stone, who resigned his cabinet position to accept appointment as associate justice of the United States supreme court. Mr. Stone, whose appointment is yet to be confirmed by the senate, will take the place vacated by Justice Joseph McKenna.

WILL WED MILLIONAIRE

Mr. and Mrs. George Hunter Smith of Chillicothe and New York City, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Judith Marcia, to Philip Morgan Plant, son of Mrs. William Hayward, of New York City. The date of the marriage has not been set. For several seasons Miss Smith has been prominent in New York society and is one of its most popular members. Mr. Plant is one of New York City's wealthiest young men by reason of being heir to the twenty million dollar estate left by Commodore Morton Plant late owner of steamship lines known as the Plant system. He was also owner of a large line of hotels in Florida. The father of Miss Smith is the owner of land in this county situated near South Bloomfield.

TO VISIT HAWAII ISLANDS.

Miss Elizabeth Roth will leave Wednesday for California and from there will sail for Honolulu January 21, with Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Throop of Columbus.

Columbus, Jan. 12--Senator L. C. Collister, of Cleveland, co-author of the Freeman-Collister Bus law, today had ready for introduction in the senate an amendment which would provide for home rule over inter-city bus lines.

LOUIS MALVY

Louis Malvy, former French minister of the interior, who was convicted of communicating with the enemy during the war and banished from France, has been granted amnesty.

No Wonder.
Mrs. Jobling—"I don't know what is the matter with this clock, but it won't go." Her husband looked at it, then oiled it, and blew in it with the bellows, but it would not go, and he went to bed. The next morning his wife said: "Henry, I know what is the matter with the clock." "Well, what?" asked her husband. "It wants winding!" she said.

Apache Custom.
In order to ascertain the time of day, the Apache Indians used a gourd on which the stars of heaven were marked. As the constellation rose the Indian could tell the hour by referring to the gourd, and by turning the gourd round he could tell the order in which the constellations might be expected to appear.

NEARLY HALF OF U. S. CITIZENS VOTE SLACKERS

National Manufacturers' Association Makes Survey of Vote in Last Election.

New York.—The National Association of Manufacturers which took a leading part in the "get out the vote" movement preceding the recent election has just completed a survey of the vote. It shows that 19 states cast a smaller vote this year than in 1920. Indiana and Kansas occupy positions of honor in the table made public by the association, showing the vote cast by states, the figures based on unofficial and incomplete returns. In Indiana, it would appear, 83 per cent of the potential vote came out, and in Kansas 80 per cent. New York shows 60 per cent of the potential vote effective, as compared with 56.7 per cent four years ago.

The lowest percentage is recorded for South Carolina. Only 8 per cent of its electors went to the polls.

Crooked English Roads

Add to Auto Deaths

London.—Motorcars in England have not yet become so common that they kill as many people each year as does influenza, which statistics show to be the case nowadays in America, but the toll of life on the highways is becoming a matter of concern over here, too.

In the last 12 months road accidents increased in number by 26 per cent over the previous year. Sir Henry P. Maybury, director general of roads in the ministry of transport, told a recent meeting of motor manufacturers that he has been impressed with the growing tendency to increased speeds by all manner of vehicles.

High-speed driving is more dangerous in England than in almost any other country with good roads for the country highways seldom keep to a straight line for any considerable distance. It is doubtful if they ever will, unless automobiles become considerably more numerous and new roads are demanded. One of the charms of England is her winding narrow roads, lined with hedges, and few want to see them given up merely for the sake of getting from place to place in less time.

Gather Paintings by

Morse, Famous Inventor

Philadelphia.—It is not generally remembered today that Samuel F. B. Morse, founder of the American system of the magnetic telegraph, was a portrait painter, in his early days, of considerable and deserved reputation. In his generation he was regarded, with Gilbert C. Stuart and Thomas Sully, as a great artist. In later life his inventions in the electric field were of such magnitude that he is associated largely as an inventor in the public mind.

The Art alliance of Philadelphia has decided to hold an exhibition of the portraits painted by Morse, and this will be the first public effort to bring before the American public his artistic achievements. To this end the alliance is preparing a catalogue of Morse's portraits and endeavoring to make the list complete. It feels there may be a number of his pictures in the country of which it has as yet no record.

The exhibition probably will be held in Philadelphia as soon as the Morse portraits can be located and assembled.

Pot 2,600 Years Old

Woolen Stockings Half

Size Larger Than Feet

Woolen stockings, agree style authorities and doctors, have come to stay—at least so long as we will wear low-cut shoes and short skirts through the cold of winter. And so, if you are a sensible woman, as well as a well-dressed one, says the Kansas City Star, you are sure to want some wool stockings to wear with your sports clothes and walking togs in the winter time.

In buying wool stockings, one of the most important things to remember is to get them large enough—a half size larger than the feet, at least. It is true that any stocking will wear better if it is slightly longer than the foot, but the fact is particularly true as regards wool stockings, because of their extraordinary shrinking properties. This difficulty may be overcome by care in laundering as well as by allowing for shrinkage when you buy. Never use anything but soft water in washing wool stockings, since soft water requires less soap to make a lather; and the less soap you use, the better, since soap is likely to cause felting—the direct cause of shrinking in woolsens. It will pay you to buy the wooden forms on which to dry your wool stockings, too, if you wear them a great deal. On these, the stocking feet will stretch back to the proper size.

Now, many women object to wool stockings on the grounds that they are "scratchy." If you have discovered this fault with them you will probably find a solution in the silk and wool stockings, which are not only more attractive, having less tendency to "thicken" the ankles; but which are softer and less harsh against the skin. Silk and wool stockings are easier to launder, too, than are all-wool stockings. They should, however, be washed only in lukewarm water and pure soap, and should be carefully pulled and patted into shape as they dry.

The disadvantage of both wool and silk and wool stockings lies in the tendency to keep them on indoors, after having worn them out of doors. It is wise always to change them for lightweight silk or cotton stockings, when in a warm place, else the feet will become tender and sensitive.

Plaid Taffeta Tunics

in Ensemble Costumes

Tunics of plaid taffeta are an integral part of the ensemble costumes designed for school girls and their sisters of sub-debutante age. Dance frocks are of plaid chiffon in lovely pastel tones, while the sports frock of flannel and the tailored suit of a plain material combined with plaid are recognized as outstanding features of the modes of this season. One of the prettiest models is a dark blue flannel which has a three-quarter length tunic bound with red and blue plaid and worn over a skirt of plaid. The fashion of lining the coat with plaid, or of using one of the new woolsens which are plain on one side and plaid on the other for the coat is a distinctive note of the new modes and one which has achieved a decided vogue.

Fur Collars Are Ribbon Tied

The little dress was in satin, quite straight, with long tight sleeves, and, for all trimming, a narrow band in front set with buttons, with a jabot of the same material on each side. The three-quarter length coat was in silk broche with a shaped flounce at the bottom bordered with a narrow band of fur. A small fur collar separate from the dress, tied with ribbons in front, was a pretty detail. Similar collars in fur were frequently seen on other models.

Requirements for Culture

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, outlined five traits that distinguish a man of culture. They are, in condensed version: Correct use of the mother tongue; refined and gentle manners; sound standards of appreciation of beauty; power and habit of reflection and efficiency or the power to do. To these requirements for the cultured man, an European woman educator has added, to make the "complete woman," the following: Cultivation of a lively imagination, untiring energy and wholehearted devotion to an ideal, idea or a person.

Plant Trees to Save Birds

Three hundred coconut palms are to be shipped immediately to Bird Key, one of the Tortugas islands off the southwest coast of Florida, to protect the noddy tern from extinction, according to Dr. Paul Bartsch of the Smithsonian institution. This tiny island is the only place under the American flag where this species of gull-like birds breed. Several years ago a tropical hurricane swept across the island and destroyed the trees in which they used to nest. Now it is planned to grow new trees to provide apartments for these rare terns.

Jewelry From Hard Coal

Polished hard coal as a substitute for jet in the production of rings, necklaces, watch fobs, ornamental hat trimmings and similar articles, is being experimented with by a German inventor. Selected hard coal is used and after the substance is cut as near to the required dimensions as possible, it is finished off with fine files and then polished. Monogram rings inscribed with initials inlaid in white enamel present a smart appearance, and few are said to be able to guess the nature of the substitute.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

WHEN CUTTING GRASS WAS A REAL HAZARD

This armored car is used for cutting the grass on the crowded municipal link at Lincoln park, near San Francisco, Cal. The car had to be screened once it became necessary to cut the grass while the links were in use and no rider would risk the job without this protection. With the heavy screen the car is the target many times for the players.

STORAGE BATTERY OFTEN NEGLECTED

Continue in Healthy Condition It Must Be Properly Cared For.

ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago. Many motorists do not realize the importance of the storage battery until it fails them unexpectedly. It is a natural characteristic of a storage battery to fail to function properly after it has delivered a certain amount of energy. This failure may manifest itself in many ways, but the average motorist uses his battery as long as possible and does not look at these manifestations until finally the battery quits.

The storage battery is intended to do a certain amount of work. It is giving a certain amount of energy. Therefore, to continue in a healthy condition it must be properly used and cared for. There must be a proper balance between charging and discharging, if the car is to operate satisfactorily.

Use of Car Far Above Normal.

If the continuous use to which the car is put is far above normal, the battery may be likened to a man who is heartily but gets little exercise. Stress follows, and if the condition continues, battery apoplexy is sure to result. An overcharged battery heats rapidly and if the driver does not use it sufficient use to balance the charging he must compensate somehow, either by decreasing the charge or by increasing the battery's work. If the battery is being overcharged, the remedy is to exercise it by turning on the lights when driving. This will increase the battery's work. One of the most harmful conditions to guard against in summer is overcharging. This condition always is due to one or more of the following causes: Lack of Water Harmful.

Neglect to keep the battery filled with pure distilled water is one of the greatest evils and will shorten its life quicker than anything else.

If the level of the water is permitted to reach a point below the top of the plates, the upper portion is left exposed and useless. If only half of the surface of the plates is covered by the solution, a normal charging rate is equivalent to twice the volume of current which should go through the covered portion. This causes rapid overheating and damage not seen at the time, but which results in a considerable expense later.

Batteries are so constructed that they play an important part in their destruction. Therefore it is not advisable to spend much money on repairing an old battery. Buy a new one and have a fresh start.

Some conditions might justify purchasing a good reliable second-hand battery, if such a thing is possible. Second-hand batteries usually are appropriate for the "wise guy." Generally it is a good plan to pass them up.

Hints Worth Remembering in Care of Motor Cars

Most engine ills are caused by dirt and improper lubrication. Good oil should be purchased from a reliable concern and used regularly. If the engine is kept clean any leak in the lubricating system can be detected at once. This is but one of the many reasons why an engine should be kept scrupulously clean.

Allow the rain curtains to dry unattended. This will enable them to shrink a little, thus assuring a better fit when they are fastened on again. Undoing the lower fasteners will suffice.

A car that is very frequently washed requires considerable attention to the matter of spring lubrication. The springs will sometimes receive more water during a washing than during a run in the rain.

There should be sufficient lighting in every private garage to enable the driver to see whether the ammeter registers neither charge nor discharge when the car's lights are switched off and the engine stopped. Use a flash light if necessary. Should the generator cut-out points stick together, current from the battery would discharge back into the generator with consequent damage to both units. You can't be sure about this if you always leave the car in total darkness after switching off its own lights.

Use Homemade Jacks for Lifting Up End of Car

When working on the rear end of an automobile, or under it, it is usually necessary to jack up one end of the car to provide more space to work. The illustration shows a pair of simple homemade jacks for this purpose. They are made of 2 by 6-inch unplanned lumber, and constructed as shown in the upper figure, each consisting of a 2 by 6-inch base, two support blocks, and a top board of the same material. The top board is pivoted on one of the support blocks by means of a piece of 1/2-inch iron pipe, loosely held in place by large staples; it must be about twice as long as the base and beveled at one end as shown, this end being slightly heavier than the other so that the board will fall to the position indicated in the upper figure.

The jacks are placed close to the wheels at the front or rear, and the car driven on. A hook is provided on one support block to keep the top board down, and a short length of iron pipe or rod, fitting loosely in holes drilled through the sides of the top, prevents the wheels from running off the jack while the work is being done, thus making the work perfectly safe.—F. S. Root, Fall River, Mass. in the Popular Mechanics Magazine.

To Prevent "Hot Box" Watch Wheel Bearings

A cracking sound coming from the hub indicates something wrong in the wheel bearings. Unless this is promptly attended to a burnt-up wheel bearing may result and there is danger of what drivers call a "hot box," which is likely to lock the wheel on to the axle or burn the axle in half, permitting the wheel to roll off. Imagine what would happen if this should occur on a down grade with a heavily loaded truck. When this cracking sound from the hub becomes audible the driver should put his hand on the hub and if he finds it hot he should carefully examine the bearings. Probably he will find a couple of the rollers cracked or broken. If this is so he should drive slowly and carefully to the nearest place where they can be replaced.

Retard Spark to a Low Point Before Starting

"Every owner operating a car bearing battery ignition should always retard the spark to a low point before attempting to operate the starting motor," says the director of a motor service station. "Otherwise, a backfire is liable to occur, resulting in either a broken engine arm or a damaged starting motor bracket. Drivers of cars of this type should also throw out the clutch before connecting the starting motor switch. When the clutch is thrown out, the transmission load is released, which, during the cold period, is an important factor in the life of the battery and the successful operation of the starting motor. No car should ever be started with the clutch engaged."

Hinges Need Oiling

Door hinges are often neglected. A drop of oil on the hinges and locks now and then will help lengthen the lives of both.

When a door has to be slammed shut because the hinges are rusty or the lock action is stiff, it shakes and strains the body. Oil the hinges and locks now and then, but be careful to wipe off all surplus so that it will not get on your clothes when entering car.

HEARING ON CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

PRE-PRIMARY CONVENTION BILL DROPPED IN THE HOPPER

Laws to License Anglers and Auto Drivers Introduced--Sale of Fireworks May be Prohibited and Sheriff's Allowance for Feeding Prisoners May be Reduced--Other Proposals.

Battle over the child labor amendment started Tuesday when the federal relations committee held its first hearing, a public meeting in the house chamber.

C. A. Dyer, legislative agent for the Ohio Farm bureau and the grange was one of the principal speakers against the proposal.

Miss Juliette Sessions, Rev. B. F. Lamb and Sybil Burton argued in behalf of ratification.

Speaker Silver hopes to bring the amendment before the house next week or the week after for a vote. Senator L. G. Collister has ready for introduction in the senate an amendment to the bus law which would provide for "home rule" control over intracity bus lines.

The amendment would take away from the Utilities commission all jurisdiction over bus lines operating within municipalities and give the control of these lines to the cities themselves.

The expected bill to provide for pre-primary conventions was introduced in the senate Monday by Senator L. T. Marshall.

Under this bill delegates to the regular state convention would, in addition to adopting platforms, place the stamp of approval on their choices for state offices, supreme court judges and U. S. senators.

Such endorsement, however, would be no more than an endorsement and the most hoped for it would be to "discourage" those so-called unsatisfactory candidates, Senator Marshall pointed out.

This action of "hand-picking" would have the opposite effect on the public at large, according to opponents of the measure.

Two bills to reduce sheriff's allowances for feeding prisoners were introduced Monday, one from Senator Day of Cuyahoga county, and the other from Senator Bender of the same district.

Senator Collister sponsored a measure to provide that auto drivers be licensed. Licenses would be restricted to persons over 18. Ability to read, write and speak English, and one year's residence in the state would be required.

Senator Ramey sponsored a measure to require physical examination before marriage.

Senator Bender reintroduced a bill to prohibit the sale of fireworks in Ohio. Bender also wants the Massachusetts ballot system used in Ohio. This would group candidates' names on one ballot under the offices sought rather than under party designation.

Senator Edwards introduced an anglers' license bill. It would require a 50 cent fee from all persons over 17.

Senator Shafer, who is blind, introduced a bill which would permit incapacitated persons to have a friend or relative mark their ballots for them at the voting booths.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 12.—(UP) Thousands of dollars in counterfeit quarters and half dollars and a counterfeiting machine were seized here late today by detectives in an east side building.

Two men were arrested. Charges will be filed against them later it was said. Police said operations of the gang exceeded a million dollars.

INCREASED PRICES

For Farming Products Prevailing Since July Should Put the Farmer on Better Financial Basis.

(United Press.)

Columbus, Jan. 13.—Farm bankruptcies, nearly three times as prevalent during 1920 to 1923 as in normal years, ought to become less frequent under the influence of the present price for Ohio farm products, is the belief of rural economists at Ohio State University.

"During pre-war years farm bankruptcies in Ohio accounted for 3.3 per cent of all the bankruptcies occurring in the state," said Dr. J. I. Falconer, head of the economics department. "In the period 1920-23, however, this percentage has increased to 10.8. Agriculture fared a good deal worse in this post-war period than most other American industries," he said.

Increased prices for farming products, however, which have prevailed since July, should put the farmer on a better basis, according to the department.

DELIVERS MESSAGE TO ASSEMBLY

Economy Was Keynote--He Declared for "Home Rule" in Local Taxation.

Governor Donahey delivered his message containing his legislative program and executive recommendations to the Eighty-Sixth General assembly immediately following his inauguration for a second term Monday.

The governor read his message in person from the house speaker's rostrum before the senate and the house in joint session.

The keynote was economy.

He declared for "home rule" in local taxation, announcing he would veto any legislation giving "taxpandering officials" the right to impose additional taxes without vote of the people.

He opposed restoration of the direct state tax levies and asserted that indirect taxes would be adequate "for all actual needs of our government economically administered."

Donahey stated that the state departments and institutions had submitted appropriations requests amounting to more than $120,000,000, although the funds available will be only approximately $77,000,000.

The unincumbered balance that it is estimated will be in the treasury at the start of the biennium was placed at $9,796,744.

TEST SHOWS NEW GAS NOT DANGEROUS

Animals Subjected to the Fumes of Ethyl Gas 188 Days Show no Symptoms of Poisoning.

Taking the knock out of the old automobile by use of anti-knock fuels involves no additional risk to persons who breathe the exhaust fumes, according to the department of interior, which has completed a protracted series of experiments with various types of small animals by subjecting them to the products of combustion from ethyl gasoline. The result of these experiments indicate that any possible increased hazard from automobile engine exhaust gases due to the use of tetraethyl lead in gasoline is so slight as to be inappreciable. The animals used in the experiments, although exposed for 188 days to unusual concentrations of exhaust gases from ethyl gasoline, showed no symptoms of lead poisoning.

"One of the outstanding problems confronting automotive engineers in attempting to construct motors of greater economy is that of eliminating the 'knock' from the operation of the engine," the bureau of mines investigators point out. Their statement continues as follows:

"Recent investigations of this detonation, or knock, in internal combustion engines, especially of the high compression type, have demonstrated that it can be eliminated or reduced by decreasing the reaction velocity of combustion by adding small quantities of certain compounds to the gasoline. This makes it possible to use engines of higher compression ratio, thereby greatly increasing the mileage per gallon of gasoline consumed. The saving in fuel reserves in increasing the proportion of crude oil marketable as motor fuel and in permitting the design of more efficient gas engines is obvious."—The Dispatch.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR IS INSTALLED

President of Senate Says Importance and Dignity Should be Realized by All.

Lieutenant Governor Charles H. Lewis, upon assuming his office said: "The organization of a new legislative body is of great potential importance. Its legislative acts are to concern every citizen within its jurisdiction."

"That we as its members should not lessen our respect for its dignity. The its obligations are personal, by direct oath of office, its every act must be the resultant judgment of all. It is for us, therefore, to realize at once the importance and the dignity of this body. Then will come forward the best in each and all of us for dependable, honorable service to the state.

"There will soon come before us questions, resolutions, bills of far-reaching effect; others perhaps of but little consequence. Yet between these extremes may come every right of property, every privilege of life. In the performance of our duties we have the inspiration of this hour and the accumulated glory of the past. Within these walls great men have stood; men of soul, of conscience, of will and deed; men whose vision was clear whose perspective was proportioned by experience, whose lives blessed Ohio, whose loyalty, devotion, consecration to country reached the hearts of the nation—Garfield, McKinley, Harding; men whose greatness will continue so long as American statesmanship is recognized throughout the world."

"So here and now, this day, tomorrow, our obligation is plain. Impressed by the memory of the past we must promise faithful performance. This we do, in the presence of these witnesses, representing the six million people of Ohio. This promise contains two essentials: First—A due and proper regard for the rights and privileges of the governor of Ohio, elected by the people; second—A respect for the people themselves, by giving them sensible, business legislation in the shortest possible time and then adjourn."

Aircraft Hook Up, Unhooked in Flight

Belleville, Ill.—The double feat of an airplane hooking itself to an airship while both were in full flight and then freeing itself to sail away again, was accomplished for the first time at Scott field, near here.

The ship used was the army dirigible TC-3, and the plane was a Sperry messenger, a small type. A metal hook attached to a frame over the motor of the plane was used to catch on to a small trapeze, swinging from cables slung under the bombing rails of the ship. The feat was accomplished at an elevation of 1,500 feet. Lieutenant Frank McKee had charge of the TC-3 and Lieutenant Fenner of McCook field, Dayton, piloted the Sperry.

A Book Ledger

I got my most definite literary stimulus from my father, who continually managed to inculcate in me an interest in good books. On my last visit home I found put away in a safety deposit box a ledger which shows he presented it to me on my eleventh birthday, and in which he had written the request that I should note the name of every book I read and with a brief review tell the impression it made on me. I faithfully kept up that record until I was through college. As I looked over it the other day, re-reading the boyish scrawls on the earlier pages, I found in an elaborate discussion of "Scottish Chiefs" the beginning of a taste, literary or otherwise—but anyway for reading—that has still endured.—Will H. Hays, in Hearst's International.

Big City Market Is Now Rat-Free

Department of Agriculture Carries Out Successful Raid in Washington.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

As a result of control measures quietly inaugurated by the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture, Center market, in Washington, has been made one of the most satisfactory markets from the standpoint of rat-free conditions in the country. When the department took over the management of this great city market, which covers an area equal to two city blocks, the place was found to be badly infested by rats, here was not only loss in food products, but also danger to public health through contamination of foods.

Barium Carbonate Used.

So serious was the infestation that some who had noticed conditions hesitated to purchase their food supplies there. To clear up the situation without unduly disturbing the public, the biological survey, co-operating with the bureau of agricultural economics, began work very incognito. Barium carbonate was distributed under carefully controlled conditions and 300 rats were found killed at one time. Traps were also used on a large scale. Accumulated rubbish was cleared away, infested hollow walls and other structures were replaced by rat-proof construction, more sanitary and rat-proof booths were built of concrete, and a large incinerator was installed to consume garbage and rubbish.

Conditions Improved.

Special attention was given to rat-proofing food-storage places, including all cold storage. The interest of the dealers was enlisted in the effort, and many neighboring commission houses, at their request, were assisted and have adopted measures recommended for the protection of the food products which they handle. While the market is still subject to invasion by rats from surrounding property and through introduction with shipments of food, necessitating careful follow-up work, conditions have been vastly improved, and the market is a valuable example of what can be accomplished when proper effort is made.

Roup May Be Controlled by Proper Management

Contagious roup is very easily spread from one bird to another by contact through the feed, water and litter. Roup is easily controlled by proper management and housing. Damp, insanitary, poorly ventilated, overcrowded drafty quarters are conducive to its spread. Only valuable birds should receive individual treatment. Place the bird in a dry, well-ventilated place and give it plenty of fresh air and feed. Every morning and evening remove all the cheesy matter from the eyes and nostrils of the bird and dip its head into a solution of bichloride of mercury (1-1,000). This is made by placing one 7.3-grain bichloride of mercury tablet in a pint of water. Hold the bird firmly and immerse the head until the eyes are covered, keeping it there a few seconds, or until it struggles.

In treating an infected flock, dispose of all bad cases by killing and burning them. Isolate all birds having colds. Keep quarters dry, provide plenty of ventilation without drafts, sunlight and avoid overcrowding. Place one 7.3-grain bichloride of mercury tablet in a gallon of water in a nonmetal container. Never use more than ten days in succession.

Different Rations That Have Got Good Results

Farmers who have good alfalfa hay find that a ration mixed from 50c pounds ground corn, 200 pounds ground oats, 200 pounds wheat bran and 10c pounds linseed oilmeal, cottonseed meal or soy bean meal gives excellent results.

When clover hay is used in place of alfalfa, the oilmeal is increased to 20c pounds. If mixed hay is the only kind a man has, he cuts the corn to 40c pounds and increases the oats to 30c pounds and the oilmeal to 200 pounds. The same amount of bran, 200 pounds, is used.

In a very few cases where it is out of the question to secure anything but timothy hay, the above ration is mixed in equal parts by weight. C. B. Finley, dairy extension man at the Iowa State college, found in his experience with over 5,000 farmers last year, that good results were always obtained from the above combinations.

Work of Busy Bee
"How doth the busy little bee," has been spoken thousands of times by school children and others without a single thought as to the important part that the busy little bee plays in the development of many of our plants. Bees serve a double purpose. They gather the sweets from the flowers and store them and at the same time they perform a greater service in carrying the pollen from one flower to another, thus insuring a full set of fruit upon our trees and certain of our vegetable plants.

Biblical "Prophets."

The numerous "prophets" of the Bible were not persons who foretold the future, but in the original the word means story writer. It will be found by a short examination that this is true.

Cheer up. Why worry? Most anything you do will make somebody glad. If you get sick somebody who don't like you will be pleased about it. Stones for Rosaries.

The rosaries sold at Kandahar are extensively manufactured from soft, crystallized silicate of magnesia. This is quarried from a hill about thirty miles northwest of the city, where soapstone and antimony are also obtained in considerable abundance. The stone varies in color from a light yellow to a bluish white, and is generally opaque.

SAILORS HAVE FIRM BELIEF IN OMENS

Deep Sea Seems to Breed Quaint Superstitions.

There is no place in the world where superstition is so powerful as on the sea. R. Barry O'Brien, writing in the Washington Post, asserts.

Let an absent-minded sailor whistle on board ship and his mates will curse him for bringing on a stiff breeze when it is not wanted.

But for a sailor to whistle when the ship is enveloped in dense fog is permissible, since the occult wind may disperse the very material fog.

Until comparatively recently, under no circumstances, was a young steamship-trained helmsman allowed to mount the "weather side of the bridge."

This privilege was reserved for old shellbacks who had been seven times round Cape Horn. But as few seamen can claim such distinction in these days of "iron ships and wooden men" the "leeside" is now universally used.

Parsons are never popular afloat. They are supposed to bring bad luck, and are therefore blamed by the crew for any misfortune that occurs.

Seamen no longer believe that rats leave an ill-fated ship before she sails. But they still regard the arrival of a corpse for shipment as a very bad omen, and I have known them to desert sooner than sail with it.

Strangely enough, the extent of their apprehension on this account varies with the social standing of the deceased, the remains of a celebrity being more fluky than those of a humble citizen.

So strong was this superstition in bygone days that the packing case containing the casket had to be labeled and stowed as ordinary cargo.

The luck of black cats is proverbial. But what is not so well known is the reason why seamen are so over-indulgent in them. This is to prevent their bringing ill-luck to the ship by running away.

During the war black cats were at a premium. With so much extra tonnage afloat there was not enough to go around.

Sometimes a young midshipman would be sent ashore in search of one. And a certain youth, sooner than return empty-handed, dyed the white patches of a black and white "stray" with ink.

Those Smart Children

"My three-year-old nephew Anaximander, hurried breathlessly into the living room where we were entertaining the minister and his wife.

"Mamma!" he cried without regard for consequences, "Bruvver's gone and torn his rubber rompers and now you'll have to vulcanize them."

Little Willie, my eighteen-month-old cousin, was earnestly watching his father (my uncle) repair his automobile.

"What seems to be the matter?" he finally asked his dad.

"I'm afraid the differential's gone wrong," said his daddy, wiping the grease off his forehead with his $8 silk shirt.

"Heck!" ejaculated Willie. "A fellow's got to understand calculus to run a car these days!"

Ermytrude is a trifle precocious and for that reason her parents temporize with her.

At the dinner table the other night she brusquely asked her mother to pass the mustard.

Mother smiled wearily and said expectantly, "If you—?"

Imagine our embarrassment when the little darling retorted, "If you know what's good for you!"—Roswell J. Powers in Judge.

Dead Spots at Sea

While we have come to accept "dead spots" on land, there is another form of "dead spot" to be found right in mid-ocean, hundreds of miles from land, for which no adequate explanation has yet been given, according to A. Dinsdale, member of the Radio Society of Great Britain. Some scientists maintain that they are caused by large mineral deposits on the ocean floor, but this explanation hardly seems satisfactory, though it is true that such dead spots can also be overcome by increasing the wavelength for communication. There are several such spots in the different oceans, and they cause quite an amount of inconvenience to ships at times, although the study of them is interesting.—Scientific American.

Something New in History

She was proud of her kindergarten class and was anxious to show off the little ones to a number of visiting mothers.

"Who discovered America?" the teacher asked.

"Columbia," shouted a little girl, easily beating her classmates to the answer.

Overlooking the error, the teacher went on:

"And what was his first name?"

"Hall," was the quick reply that sent teacher and mother into spasms of laughter.

Stars in Pairs

There are many stars that are double, says Nature Magazine—that is, they are made up of stars revolving around one another. Most of these pairs are of contrasting color, one blue and the other gold, or one red and the other green. Albrecht is considered to be one of the finest of the pairs that are visible in small telescopes.

Brown Chiffon Velvet Trimmed With Kolinsky

Showing luxuriously trimmed costume suit of brown chiffon velvet, with kolinsky trimming. It is a three-piece affair. The bodice is heavily embroidered in gold and red.

Double-Breasted Coat—Four or Six Buttons

The overcoat of the moment is one that can be used with equal success as a morning town wrap or as a useful garment to slip on after a round of golf, says a Paris fashion writer in the New York Herald. It is cut on the lines of a man's overcoat, double-breasted with four or six buttons, slit up the back, either plain or with a two-inch belt just across the back to the side seams. This is made in fancy English suitings and tweeds and is principally seen in shades of brown, pepper-and-salt or beige.

Attractive and likely to attain a real vogue are the little sports suits shown by Yteb in her midseason opening of winter fashions. Made of all kinds of warm woolen fabrics, mostly with a rough surface, they have short little straight jumpers that leave off abruptly just below the normal waistline. They have a wide hem at the bottom on which is placed a line of small buttons at the center front. These buttons are carried on straight down the center of the skirt, which has its inverted knife plaiting in the front on either side of the row of buttons, giving a line that is new, practical and very effective.

The jumper type of sports costume is often turned into a three-piece by the addition of a shoulder cape reaching to about the base of the hip line, fastening with a narrow cross-over double strap underneath. Straight little jackets, too, are often worn, made of the same material as the skirt which may be of tweed, duvetyn or kasha.

After a long vogue for the group of narrow knife plaits at the side to give fullness, the new sports skirts are made in wrap-over envelope fashion with only one wide plait at the side. For the woman who drives her own car these skirts are made with wide box plaits in front, stitched down for some six inches from the waist and then left free. This is a very practical mode and is becoming as well.

Peaked Crown Becoming to Majority of Women

There are so many different variations of the peaked crown that it is becoming to practically all types; for instance, there is the four-dented crown tip and the three-dented tip, the creased or helmet ridge that runs from side to side or from back to front, or the ridge that is turned over in quite a roll from one side to the other, or from the back to the front.

The peaked or pointed tip is more suitable to the young person. The helmet ridge type which runs from side to side, no matter in what way it is accomplished, is better for the older woman with the heavier type face, for it gives her the width that is so necessary for the stouter and larger face.

Blue for Evening Wear Is Much in Limelight

Smart coats of velvet of various cloths trimmed with light-colored fox, are features of the mode. White foxes dyed light blue, or a wheat shade known as ble are also used on these coats.

Evening gowns are mostly of velvet or chiffon, heavily embroidered with beads, and revealing much use of gold and silver combinations. Almost all shades of blue are expressed in gowns for formal wear.

A broadtail wrap made with a short cape effect was completed with a small felt hat of light blue, having a crystal and rhinestone pin as its only ornament.

Seams Important

The underarm seams of tailored frocks have become important as the point where tailored decorations, usually buttons, are introduced.

Seek Breeding Spot of African Locust Plagues

Alexandria, Egypt.—An expedition into the Kalahari desert has been organized by the South African government to discover the breeding places of the locusts that come forth in the summer and swarm over the farms of South Africa, destroying everything in their wake.

It is hoped eventually to send a small army into this desert, armed with sprayers and equipment for killing the pest. Some members of the expedition visited the kraal of the Barokene tribe, 200 miles within the desert, and were received by the native chief and his wife, both dressed in the European fashion and speaking English.

Among these natives they found a group of fifty white men and women serving in menial capacities. They are the descendants of nomadic for-bears, who trekked from the cape, only to settle among the Barokene natives, whose workmen to all intents and purposes they have become.

Being white, by the laws of the country they are denied pastoral and agricultural privileges, and now seem to have lost all initiative to move out and re-establish themselves in a white community.

Lipton Picks Prisoner to Command His Yacht

Toronto.—Sir Thomas Lipton went to the jail farm and after a chat with Amellus Jarvis, Sr., a prisoner there, announced he had found the man to command the Lipton yacht which, in 1926, will challenge America to defend the America's cup in another of the races off Sandy Hook.

Jarvis is a noted Canadian yachtsman and an old crony of Sir Thomas'. He is serving six months for conspiracy to defraud the province in a sale of bonds.

For two hours the famous tea merchant and the prisoner enjoyed each other's company at the farm. Sir Thomas made positive announcement afterward that he would challenge America's hold on the international trophy in 1926 and that he had Jarvis' promise to serve as skipper of the challenger.

The yachtsmen also virtually decided that a craft of the schooner class would be built to oppose the American defender, said Sir Thomas. Incidentally, he said nothing could convince him that his old friend Jarvis was guilty of the offense for which he was serving time.

Have Good Light.

If you work at night be sure that you have a good light. Arc lights, because of their glaring rays, are exceedingly injurious. A shaded light is the best substitute at night for diffused daylight. The electric bulbs should either have a dome or a dark paper shade. A gas light composed of mantle and bulb produces a good, diffused light and when placed high enough near the ceiling does not injure the eyes.

Builds Shaft to Honor Adam, "the First Man"

Baltimore, Md.—To make up for the neglect of the human race properly to commemorate the progenitor of all people, John P. Brady has taken it upon himself to erect a monument to Adam, the first man.

Mr. Brady's hope is that it may be the mecca of pilgrims from near, if not from far, annually on the natal day of the historic character in whose honor it has been erected.

According to Mr. Brady's calendar, Adam was born October 28, in the year 404 B. C. Every year since he built the memorial in 1902 it has been the custom of Mr. Brady to journey to the monument on Adam's birthday to lay a wreath on it and to hold with such of his friends and admirers as might attend, a sort of Memorial day service. This year Mr. Brady's poor health has made it impossible for him to pay his annual tribute to his original ancestor.

The monument is a plain stone shaft, impressive in simplicity, surmounted by a sundial. The inscription says in bold letters:

THIS, THE FIRST
SHAFT IN AMERICA IS DEDICATED

SURVEY IS MADE OF BIRD BANDING

Terns Migrate From Kennebec to the Niger.

Washington.—From the banks of the Kennebec to those of the Niger—that is the journey accredited to a common tern by the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture, which is now receiving many interesting returns from the bird-banding work at one of its bird colonies in Lake Michigan last year. Among the other interesting reports growing out of this work are those pertaining to three Caspian terns, which were located in Colombia, South America. These were found just at the time when bird banding was being done at the original colony in Michigan this year, thereby proving that the young birds do not breed in their first year.

According to the agricultural experimenters two Caspian terns were reported found in Nova Scotia and many others were discovered along the routes to the latter country and South America. Those found en route, the investigators say, show what course is followed by the migrating birds between their summer and winter homes.

With the growing interest in the procedure the department has only recently published a list of instructions concerning the practical significance of bird banding, as well as some of its history. This form of identification in America dates from the time of Audubon, who about 1803 placed silver threads around the legs of a brood of phoebes and was rewarded the following season by having two of his marked birds return to nest in the same vicinity. Although bird "ringing" was attempted in Europe as early as 1710 it was almost 200 years later, in 1899, that systematic work was undertaken.

Started in 1901.

The earlier investigators, according to the recent report, marked their birds by dyeing or staining the flight or tail feathers, attaching memoranda written on parchment, or mutilating feathers, feet or bill. In this country active experimental work was begun in 1901, when aluminum bands were attached to the legs of the birds. The results were so satisfactory and stimulated so much interest that eight years later the American Bird Banding association was organized in New York city. Subsequent study has revealed that two principal lines of research must be given special attention. First of these is the banding of fledglings and the second, the systematic trapping and banding of adults. The latter is the more significant because the older birds give the most information on bird habits.

Trapping is accomplished by various snares, one of the popular ones being the "Government" sparrow trap, a funnel-shaped device of wire and hardware cloth easily made even by the novice and very effective. Others which the department recommends are the well-known drop trap, the door of which is suspended until the unwary bird makes for the bait, when it drops down and shuts in the victim.

The department, to be able to study even more closely than heretofore the life histories of birds, urgently requests the co-operation of naturalists whose casual discoveries of wayfaring band-bearing birds might be well worth reporting. In this way the governmental investigators expect to solve the many problems which previously have baffled the ornithologist. Among these are the speed with which individuals of any species may travel on their periodic migrations, the possible vanguard formed by one flock for others and the advance made by successive flocks passing one over the other in alternate periods of rest and flight.

Questions to Be Answered.

Other questions which can be answered by bird-banding operations are:

Do individuals of any species always follow the same route, and is the route the same for both spring and fall flights?

Do migrating birds make the same stop-over every year to feed?

How long do birds remain in one locality during the migration, the breeding or the winter season?

What is the relation between the breeding and the wintering grounds of individuals; that is, do those birds that breed farthest north winter farthest south, thus jumping over those that occupy the intermediate zone, or do they merely replace the latter individuals as winter residents?

To what region do the birds go, particularly the young, that do not return to the vicinity of their original nests?

Do birds adopt the same nesting area, nest site and winter quarters in successive seasons?

For how many broods will one pair remain mated, and which bird, if not both, is attracted next year to the old nesting site?

To what extent do males of a species assist in incubation and brooding? How far from their nests do birds forage for food, and after the young have left the nest will the parent birds bring them to the feeding and trapping station?

Fifty Aerial Torpedoes Stolen From U. S. Magazine

San Diego, Cal.—Fifty aerial torpedoes have been stolen from secret reserve ammunition magazines on Point Loma, near here, and United States naval officers and police are worried about the possible uses to which they may be put. Discovery of the robbery was made when the weekly inspection was made by naval officers.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From the Wires by Correspondents of United States Press Association.

Canton, O., Jan. 14.—(United Press) Helen Spriggle, 11, and Leonard Spriggle, 4, were burned to death this morning when fire destroyed the home of their grandfather, Frank Spriggle at Meyers station near here.

The grandfather had left for work after building a fire in the kitchen stove. The other members of the family were in bed. A neighbor discovered the fire and aroused the family. Newton Spriggle, father of the children and a widower, jumped from the upstairs window. Flames prevented him from reaching the children and they were burned to death in their room.

Melmore, O., Jan. 14.—(United Press)—Mr. and Mrs. George L. Myers 60, were burned severely when fire, starting when a can of coal oil exploded as Myers was building a fire in the furnace, destroyed their home today.

His clothing aflame, Myers rushed out of the basement and plunged into a snowbank. He then collapsed.

Mrs. Myers escaped unhurt immediately following the explosion but was burned badly when she returned to save some money she had left in the house.

Marion, O., Jan. 14.—(United Press) Warren G. Harding, II, nephew of the late president, has gone to sea. Harding, 19, is now a purser on the Steamship Marengo, and is bound for Malta.

The post was given him by Henry Herberman, president of the company operative the Marengo and a close friend of the late president.

THIS TAILOR

Charges By the Year and Keeps You Fashionably Clad.

A new idea for ending man's clothing troubles appears in this week's issue of the weekly magazine, Liberty. It is the idea of a Minneapolis tailor, who, according to Liberty, enjoys the distinction of having the best dressed clientele among men of moderate means of anybody in the Minnesota metropolis.

"This man," says the Liberty account, "evolved the idea of a budget system for men, and today he figures a clothes budget for hundreds of men, notifies them when they need a suit or overcoat, and makes the garments for them."

"Meeting a new customer, the tailor inquires just how much money his patron wants to spend during the year for clothing. Whether the customer says $100 or $1,000 makes no difference. The tailor examines his patron's wardrobe, calculates what is needed, and so advises him. He plans usually a heavy overcoat one season, a light one for the next. If the budget is small, he prefers one good overcoat and one good light or heavy suit each year to one overcoat and two suits."

"In addition to making the clothes and arranging the budgets for his customers, this ingenious tailor takes care of the clothing. If he meets a customer wearing trousers out of shape and wrinkled coat, he calls him to time and insists upon pressing and fixing up the garment."

AMUSEMENTS

An hour and a half of worth-while entertainment is wrapped up in Pola Negri's latest Paramount picture "Lily of the Dust," which had its premiere last night at the Met theater. The colorful atmosphere, the lavish backgrounds and settings, the capable direction and the superb acting of Miss Negri, ably supported by a powerful cast, combine to make this photoplay one of the outstanding hits of the season.

There is no doubt in our minds but that Dimitri Buchowetzki who produced the screen play is the ideal director for Pola. He appears to understand her temperament and the result is that under his sympathetic eye, Miss Negri rises to heights of acting seldom equalled on the screen. The other acting honors fall to the lot of Noah Beery, Ben Lyon and Raymond Griffith.

Paul Bern is responsible for the adaptation which was taken from a story by Hermann Sudermann and a play by Edward Sheldon. It deals with the trials and tribulations of a poor, but pretty girl who, after many hectic love adventures, finds peace and happiness.

GOV. DONAHEY

Says He Was Inspired As a Youth
By McGuffey's Readers.

(United Press.)
Columbus, Jan. 14.—Governor Donahey was inspired as a youth by McGuffey's readers, he told a correspondent.

Judge Carrington T. Marshall, chief justice of the Ohio Supreme Court, said the one book making the greatest impression on him in his youth was a "correlation of Professor McGuffey known as the Sixth Reader."

"I learned to read in the McGuffey first and second readers before I started to school," said the governor. "I have never forgotten them. They inspired me and gave me ideals. They are made up of great literature. I can quote from all of them now."

"It contains selections from the world's finest classics," said the chief justice. Justice Marshall can also recite from the readers.

Caledonian Art

At pottery the Caledonians could not compare with the Romans, since the potter's wheel seems to have been unknown amongst them. But they almost excelled the "masters of the world" in their ornaments. The mountains yielded their craftsmen gold, silver, bronze, amber, rubies and rock crystals such as agate, jasper and cairngorms and jet. From these they made ornaments and weapons.

SAILLESS SAILING SHIP FOR FUTURE

New Invention Relies on Air for Power.

Berlin.—The sailing vessel of the future will be without sails if the new invention of Dr. Anton Flettner, known as the Flettner rotor, proves to be all that is claimed for it.

Instead of wooden masts, rigging and sails, the new equipment will consist only of metal masts, resembling smokestacks, revolved on their axis by a motor. Experiments with a 650-ton hull, fitted as above set forth, have shown that with one-fifth of the weight of the customary masts and sails the rotor ship can develop 15 times the wind power of the ordinary sailing vessel. The rotor ship does not have to be hauled out of the harbor by a tug—it starts the minute the cylinders, driven by a small Diesel motor, begin to rotate. This motor can be handled by one person on the bridge, and all the crew formerly necessary for sailing can be dispensed with. From an economic standpoint the inventor claims that from 30 to 80 per cent can be saved on fuel if the rotor device is installed.

The Hamburg-American line has ordered the construction of a 10,000-ton freighter which is to sail with rotors instead of sails, and the whole shipping world is inquiring into the adaptability of the invention to passenger ships.

The principle on which the new ship operates has been explained by Herr Freudenberg, Doctor Flettner's right-hand man, as follows:

Air Course Studied.

"Supposing a current of air strikes a smooth cylinder, such as a smokestack or the cylinder of our rotor, what will happen? The air will pass to the right and to the left of the cylinder about evenly. Now suppose one-half of the cylinder were covered with some rough surface, such as sandpaper, what would happen? The air current, following the lines of least resistance, would pass off toward the smooth side and only very little of it toward the roughened side.

"In other words, the air current will go where there is least resistance to it. Suppose next that we begin to turn the smooth cylinder by some mechanical means, such as an electric motor. As it revolves, one side of it, the disappearing side as you look at it from the front, will be moving in the same direction in which the air current is moving, while the other side will run counter to the air current. Naturally the air, following the lines of least resistance, will pass off toward the side where the cylinder turns with the wind.

"It follows that if the cylinder is turned faster than the velocity of the wind there is absolutely no friction on the one side for the air, and the whole current will be deflected to that side with such vehemence and with such crowding together of current that suction ensues on the side revolving with the wind, while on the side coming up against the wind a pressure against the cylinder is produced.

"This combination of suction on one side of the cylinder and of pressure on the other forces the ship forward and sails can be dispensed with."

Steel Supports Cylinders.

The revolving or rotating cylinders are mounted on strong masts of steel. In the case of the experimental ship, the Buckau, the steel masts projected above the deck for a distance of 40 feet, while the cylinders which are set upon the pivotal masts like hoods, were 25 feet higher. They revolve about the pivots on ball bearings and turn noiselessly. The motor, using only 2 per cent of the power that would be needed to drive the ship with a propeller, can turn the cylinders at the rate of about 110 revolutions a minute. In the case of a sailing vessel therefore 98 per cent of the power is produced by the wind acting upon the cylinders, while only 2 per cent is contributed by the small motor that one person can attend to.

The rotor ship can be made to reverse its direction by merely reversing the motor. To turn the boat about, one cylinder is made to turn in one direction and the other in the opposite, just as in rowing one turns by pulling at one oar and pushing the other.

The fact that the changes of speed or the reversing of the motor can be done instantaneously, makes it possible for the new ship to ride a storm quite as easily as it moves in clear weather.

The Flettner people look upon the rotor ship as a mere beginning along the road of gaining energy from the air. Some day the wind may be giving us heat, light and power, Doctor Flettner observes. He is therefore at work on the construction of a windmill or wind tower which, if perfected, will mean that the American farmer can reduce his coal bill to a minimum, and take energy out of the air. It will mean, the inventor declares, that flying across the ocean will become a simple thing, for instead of running the risk of getting out of fuel the aviator will draw his energy from the wind.

Spreading the Scriptures

If the present rate of distribution of the Bible is maintained the whole world may be supplied before the end of the century, says the New York Times. A high-water mark was reached last year, according to recent reports, when 30,000,000 copies of the Scriptures found their way into parts of all lands.

Of last year's total about one-fourth was the output of the American Bible society, an organization that since its birth 108 years ago has issued almost 160,000,000 volumes of Scriptures. For the second time in its history the society last year exceeded the 7,000,000-copy mark, an increase of 2,500,000 over the previous year.

Lawyer's Clients Defined

A group of lawyers was conversing on divorce subjects recently in one of the corridors of the courthouse. They were joined by a young member of the profession who was bitterly denouncing the stupidity of his client who had just been cross-examined on the witness stand, and had become hopelessly confused by the opposition.

"Why, the darn fool," the young man began, but was stopped by Henry Spaan, one of the attorneys in the group, who said:

"Young man, did you ever stop to think that were it not for the darn fools, we lawyers would be without means of support?"—Indianapolis News.

Here's Graphic Story of Boudoir Tragedy

The room was in a state of fearful disorder. Cupboards had been opened and their contents scattered here and there in the utmost confusion, says London Answers. Dresses and coats had been torn from their hooks and lay in crumpled heaps on the floor. Everywhere chaos reigned.

At first sight the room appeared empty, but through the gloom in one far corner a figure was discernible—the figure of a woman.

There she crouched, despair writ large on her beautiful face, the light of agony in her eyes. Her long black hair streamed loose over her shoulders and her face was flushed. Her whole attitude was that of a woman driven to desperation, of one who had received some dreadful injury and knew not which way to turn.

At last anger got the better of her. She drew herself erect with a gesture of indignation. Stretching her arms out she cried aloud:

"I cannot stand any more! It is already too much! I was so proud of you, and you have repaid my pride with torture!"

"You were the envy of all my friends and I gloried in their envy. Every glance that was cast at you filled me with an inward glow. But you are not what I thought you. What have you done? You have tortured me until I cried out in agony, and still for your beauty I love you."

She broke off, her breast rising and falling with the stress of her emotions. Her breath came in short, quick gasps. She rocked herself to and fro as she moaned in agony.

Suddenly there was a knock at the door.

"It is time!" said a voice from within.

The words seemed to spur the woman to action.

"Yes," she replied hysterically, "it is time. I have stood you in spite of everything. But now—now I will end it forever. I will cast you off!"

And with an imperious gesture she ripped the little dancing shoe from her foot and flung it from her.

It was lovely—but a size too small.

One of the great mysteries of life is why the wise who admit they know so much seem always to own so little.

Magpie Superstitions.

The magpie has a lot of stories connected with his career. What I am going to tell you seems like nonsense, but it is a straight fact. The "mag" of magpie was originally Marguerite or Margaret, simmering down into a nickname, just as a lot of human Margarets are affectionately called "Mag" by their friends. Of the magpie it is said that to see one is a sign of bad luck, two good luck, three death, four a wedding.—Exchange.

BELIEVES MOUND BUILDERS INDIANS

Prof. John B. MacHarg Tells of Recent Explorations.

Appleton, Wis.—To the art of the mound builders, whose work is rapidly passing into oblivion in the wake of the man with the plow, Prof. John B. MacHarg, head of the department of American history at Lawrence college here, has devoted a mythical volume of almost forgotten lore.

After a personal trip of exploration made this summer to the prominent scenes of these primitive builders, Professor MacHarg concluded that nearly all of these structures were the work of Indians who lived during the last thousand years, although just when the Indian started his fashion of mound building no one could definitely say.

"From articles of European origin found in some of these mounds, however, it has been established that for a time, at least, mounds were built after the advent of the white man," said Professor MacHarg. "Art forms found in them also connected the latter-day mound builder with present-day Indians."

As to inclosures, used for defense or ceremonial purposes, the most spectacular are those near Newark, Ohio, extending over hundreds of acres. Ramparts, thousands of feet in extent, ten to thirty in height, outlining avenues, circles and other geometrical figures, were constructed and still are memorials of a considerable civilization.

Effigy mounds, or great animal pictures ranging in height from a few inches to a few feet, are most numerous in Wisconsin, but the most striking is in Adams county, Ohio, where one extends for a thousand feet in the shape of a serpent.

The snake mounds near Appleton, Wis.; the elephant mound of Grant county, Wisconsin; the man mound and the lynx mounds near Baraboo, Wis., are examples of effigy mounds known best to the initiated.

VALUE OF HUSBAND IS $1, SAYS JURY

Wife Who Sued for $50,000
May Take Appeal.

Millington, Tenn.—What is a sixty-year-old husband worth?

Mrs. Fannie Burgner, fifty-six, named a price of $50,000.

A jury in Judge Ben L. Capell's court said he might be worth $1, but no more than that.

Whereupon Mrs. Burgner declared that she was going to prove that Daniel Webster Burgner, to whom she was wedded more than 35 years ago, is worth $50,000 if he's worth a dime, if she has to carry the matter up to the United States Supreme court.

"I'll admit he's a gay Lothario and awfully kittenish with the widows, especially those of the grass variety," Mrs. Burgner told the court, "but I value his love and himself as a husband at $50,000."

Daniel Webster Burgner's bosom swelled and he felt quite complimented when his wife sued Mrs. Mary Fleming, fifty-four, wealthy plantation owner, for $50,000 for "stealing my husband." The bill as filed by Mrs. Burgner's attorney described the offense as "alienation of affections."

"But I call it stealing," said Mrs. Burgner. "She stole Daniel Webster, didn't she?"

"Anyway, when the jury deliberated over the situation a few hours they decided that Mrs. Fleming had, at least, alienated Daniel Webster's affections, but they weren't worth over a dollar. So Mrs. Burgner was awarded $1 as compensatory damages for the loss by theft of her husband."

Feminine and financial charms, according to Mrs. Burgner, won away her husband's love. She alleged in her complaint that Mrs. Fleming presented Daniel Webster with "love gifts," ranging from "a nice red apple" to an automobile. Burgner was employed by Mrs. Fleming as her plantation manager.

"As to the widow presenting me love gifts," he testified, "I may have kidded my friends by telling them she had given me a horse, finger rings, an automobile and a gold watch, but I was just funning—they didn't belong to me. And the widow didn't promise me a life of ease with all my heart could desire. That ain't so, I don't care what Fannie says."

Adopts 30 Children on Policeman's Salary

St. Louis.—Police Sgt. Joe Schneider has fathered thirty children in twenty years on a policeman's salary.

Since 1904 his home has been a regular orphanage, seldom without at least a dozen youngsters living under his roof.

Schneider and his wife, never blessed with children of their own, first adopted the orphaned daughter of old friends. But the little girl, they soon saw, was lonesome without her old playmates. So they got some for her.

From then on adopting homeless youngsters became a habit with the Schneiders.

Until his recent promotion to a sergeantcy, Schneider was a traffic cop on St. Louis' busiest downtown corner. On that job he was paid $145 a month. Today he gets $165.

"But big pay," he tells you, "is only a late thing. It's only been a few years since we were getting $70 a month. And it's comparatively recently we were getting $90."

"Yet it was just as smooth traveling in the old $70 days as now—maybe more so. The wife runs the business of the household and she never gets in the 'red.' We live well and don't worry."

Don Juan, Jobless, to Face Forty-two Fiancees

Vienna.—A jobless clerk, Julius Grunwald, aged twenty-six, who has received the government dole for two years, has been arrested here after promising marriage to forty-two girls in Vienna and district and living handsomely upon money borrowed from them.

His forty-second betrothed became suspicious and caused the arrest. When the young man was searched by the police an extraordinary diary was found in his pocket, containing precise details of his many daily engagements, the meeting-places, and the name to be assumed in each case by Grunwald, who used eighteen aliases. The forty-two fiancees must all give evidence against him.

Levi Leiter's Grandson Now Earl of Suffolk

London.—From a poky little cabin aboard a tramp steamer to the luxury of a Jacobean mansion was the quick change of circumstances experienced recently by the seventeen-year-old earl of Suffolk.

The earl had been knocking around the world in the steamer Mount Stewart, sharing the hard life and food of sailors for about 18 months, when the death of the old earl was announced. The young man's ship had just arrived at Nantes with a cargo of nitrate from South America, and he immediately said good-by to his shipmates and hurried to the family seat, Charlton house, near Malmesbury.

People in the district are wondering whether the young earl will settle down to society's ways, or whether the travel temptation inherited from his American mother, a daughter of the late Levi Leiter of Chicago, will lure him away to fresh adventures.

Greeting Cancels Stamp

One of the most original stamp cancellations ever put on a piece of United States mail was that used by the postmaster at Cassville, Wis., June 25, 1852, when he wrote "Good Morning, Edward" across the stamp when he recognized the name of the addressee as that of one of his personal friends.

New Models—and Fords

EVERY NEW FORD IS A NEW MODEL

It is the custom of most manufacturers to keep all their improvements for a year and then feature them in a new model. This gives a stimulant to the sales of that car once a year.

Every shipment of Ford cars we receive is improved over the last, so EVERY NEW FORD CAR IS A NEW MODEL.

A few of the improvements in the last month are:

- More accessible crank case opening
- Light pistons to give less vibration.
- Improved distribution of oil in transmission.
- Increase in volume and pressure in oiling system.
- More steel and less wood in closed car bodies.

You don't have to wait a year for improvements in Fords, each car is improved over the last one. Too many of our new prospects are going to buy in the spring, they are going to be disappointed, at least some of them are going to wait, or take some inferior car.

HAILS PASSING OF MIDDLE-AGED WOMAN

Writer Eulogizes Present Age of Youthfulness

Gray hairs are gone, old age is out of date, and a sign of the times is the disappearance of the middle-aged woman.

This is as it should be. So long as a mature woman does not ape a flapper, why should she not keep her youthful looks into the forties—or the seventies? Why should a dowager assume that it is her duty to be dowdy? A black gown and a white heart are not inseparable, and dull gray and goodness do not always go together. If a woman is "all glorious within" it is well that her looks should make this manifest.

Nowadays our social world seems to be divided into girls, young married women and women who are great-grandmothers. No more do you see the middle-aged matron, with her proud grace and reserved bearing; or the handsome mother of forty, with her flow of talk and flock of dull daughters. And we never come across the sweet-faced, sad-eyed single woman—the typical maiden aunt of the Victorian era.

Sad to say, the ideal old lady has gone forever, with her silver hair, white cap, black gown and gentle, dignified manners. Old ladies, such as those depicted in Whistler's famous portrait of his mother, or in Manet's picture of Mme. Manet mere, have ceased to exist in our social life of today.

Everything in life—art, dress, rules of health and beauty culture—tends toward the exit of the middle-aged woman. And she is out of it on the stage and in fiction. Balzac's "Femme de Trente Ans" seems a back number, as many heroines in up-to-date novels are well on in the forties and fifties. And the same note is sounded in the plays of the period.

Most of us live up to this august example. Women of sixty or seventy yacht, hunt, shoot, dance, play golf and hooky and drive their own motor cars. One peeress, who was married in the sixties, drives her car with success, and another of the same age leads cotillions, although she is the proud owner of several grandchildren.

Much can be said on the side of perennial youthfulness. The desire to prolong one's youth shows vital force and is said to be a sure proof of national well-being. Every woman for her own sake would fain keep fresh and young, as she is well aware that so long as her looks remain she can rule men, and there will be no "Finis" written on the page of her book of life.—The Hon. Mrs. Fitzroy Stewart in the London Mail.

Great Speed of Air Craft

When speed records established by airmen are recorded, only those who are in the game can really understand what real speed means. Trains or autos traveling at the rate of sixty miles an hour give a thrill, but what are these compared with "air" thrills. A very good illustration was given by an aviator who took part in one of the contests, acting as mechanic on an airplane which was moving at nearly two miles a minute. "We seemed to have the whole sky to ourselves one minute," he said, "and then behind us appeared one of the giants. She overhauled us as if we were standing still, and was far in front almost before we realized we were not alone." Curiously enough even the airmen themselves find it difficult to estimate at what rate they are tearing over the earth.

New Disease Announced

A new disease has been discovered by Dr. Marshall Clinton, of the University of Buffalo. The symptoms are sharp shooting pains in the side. Prior to his discovery, he declares, many physicians mistook it for appendicitis, gall bladder infection, kidney trouble or some other serious ailment. Many women have been operated on for appendicitis, when house wife's rib was all that was the matter with them, Doctor Clinton says. The ailment is common and occurs most frequently among housewives. Persons who are shortwaisted are especially subject to it. The cure for costalgia consists of an operation to remove the tip of the floating rib.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Reflected Glory

Two artists on tour took a hack at Marseilles to visit the city in comfort. At the end of a few minutes the cabman turned around and remarked: "I'll say you two are no fools." Astounded, the two friends looked at each other without a word. Five minutes afterward the same thing happened. "Why do you keep telling us that?" asked one of the travelers. "Ha! pardi," he answered. "You have engaged, without knowing it, the best cabman in Marseilles."—Le Rire, Paris.

Made Provision for Pets

A kind old English lady was so much attached to three goldfish that she left £70 ($350) for their feed and care. When they died the interest from the money was to be used to keep the grass green and smooth above their graves and decorated with fitting flowers. Another woman provided $500 a year for the care of her parrot. The keeper was to bring the bird every two years to a certain lawyer that identification might be made of the bird as the original one.

AMUSEMENTS

Readers of the Saturday Evening Post will recall that a few months ago there appeared in that publication a most unusual story by Lucy Stone Terrill, entitled "Face." The originality of its plot occasioned considerable comment and commendation. Paramount recognized it as exceptional screen material and bought the motion picture rights.

"Unguarded Women," which is scheduled to open at the Met theater next Monday for a two days' run, is an adaptation of that story—the history of how a man of honor brings back to social esteem a girl whose love of gaiety makes her a society outcast. It is intensely dramatic, full of suspense, with a strong and fine love interest and a happy climax.

It was evidently the aim of the producers to leave no stone unturned or rather, to leave no actor out of the cast who could successfully contribute to the logical interpretation of the difficult roles the photoplay calls for. The result is that we have an array of talent that should satisfy the most fastidious. Bebe Daniels, Richard Dix and Mary Astor are featured at the head of a superb cast that includes Walter McGrail, Frank Losee, Harry Mestayer, Joe King, Helen Lindroth and Donald Hall, all of them exceptionally fitted by training and temperament for their respective characterizations.

To further insure a high grade production, Alan Crosland was entrusted with the responsibility of directing the picture. Since Mr. Crosland has to his credit such screen successes as "Enemies of Women," "Under the Red Robe," "Three Weeks" etc., it is safe to predict that no one will find fault with the settings, costumes and backgrounds. Incidentally it may be of interest to mention that most of the action takes place in Pekin China, a locale that is admittedly chockfull of atmosphere and color.

Make a note of the playdate if you want to be amongst those present when "Unguarded Women" comes to town.

RAPID STRIDES IN BRONCHIAL CLINIC

New Instruments Enable Physician to See Inside Patient's Throat.

Washington.—Some of the most spectacular feats of surgery imaginable are performed in the bronchoscopic clinic at Jefferson hospital, Philadelphia. To this clinic come babies who have an appetite for safety pins, elderly gentlemen whose false teeth somehow slide down into inaccessible regions, patients who have swallowed fishbones, collar buttons, keys, money, marbles, poison and other strange and unwholesome things.

Less dramatic but equally interesting are the sufferers from bronchial affections, who come to have their inner tubes inspected and overhauled. Dr. Chevalier Jackson, who is in charge, is one of the outstanding authorities on bronchial conditions and his clinic represents the most up-to-date methods known.

It is not so long ago that the medical man's way of investigating bronchitis and obstructions in the chest was to place a stethoscope over the patient's chest and to listen learnedly to the peculiar sounds inside. He had other tests, but they were all indirect, like this. Now it is possible to take a look at the bronchial tubes, not only by X-ray but as directly as if it were possible literally to get inside of the tubes.

A bronchial patient who visited the Philadelphia clinic reports that the usual general examination with a stethoscope is first made by three separate doctors. The X-ray pictures of the chest are taken and blood tests are made to detect the presence of tuberculosis or other dangerous germs. Then the patient comes to the test of the "lights."

His throat is treated with a local anesthetic, and he reclines on a couch surrounded by the clinic doctor and assistants. He is told to open his mouth and to breathe fully. After that, the doctor puts something which feels like an arm down the patient's throat. This is really a bronchoscope, a tube about the size of a thumb in diameter. It has in it tiny electric lighting apparatus and magnifying glasses so arranged that the examiner can look down and see the exact condition of the main bronchial tubes—the pipes which carry air into the lungs.

Decidedly a Mouthful.

The inserted tube is decidedly a mouthful, and the patient at first feels suffocated. But the tube has a breathing hole, and as soon as the patient adjusts himself to this he breathes more or less naturally. The tube is raised and lowered as the doctor explores the cavity with his tiny light. When it is removed he knows exactly what the disease has done to the throat and the lining of the bronchial tubes.

Doctor Jackson and his assistants use a number of different tubelike instruments, some of which he has devised himself. In the case of a person who has swallowed some foreign body the doctor looks down the throat by means of a light in a tube and after he has located the obstruction he carefully withdraws it by means of a tube equipped with a tiny pair of forceps or by suction.

Generally the operations are not so simple as this sounds. There are comparatively few surgeons in the country who attempt them. One case which came to the bronchoscopic clinic was that of a nine-months-old baby suffering presumably from a safety pin in its throat. X-ray examination showed that four safety pins, all large and all open, were lodged in the esophagus, the tube through which the food passes from the mouth to the stomach. The pins were interlocked and tangled in a bit of wool, so that if the surgeon tried to draw one pin up into the mouth of his probing tube the points of the other pins would have torn the baby's throat.

Finally the two lower pins were guided one at a time, down into the baby's stomach—the doctors watching them all the way by means of lighted tubes. These pins passed safely into the intestinal tract. The two larger and stiffer pins were drawn up into the child's mouth by forceps and other instruments and the child was soon discharged as cured.

In recording this particular case Doctor Jackson wrote: "Safety pins should be kept out of the reach of children and parents and nurses should not set a bad example by holding pins in their own mouths while dressing children."

Cases of foreign bodies being found in the bronchial tubes and in the esophagus are on the increase. This is because such troubles are correctly diagnosed more frequently and because the obstruction can generally be located by the X-ray, and because removal by delicate instruments is possible. The clinic handles approximately one case a day in which it is necessary to remove some obstruction from passages in throat and chest. This does not mean that Philadelphia has so large a number of "swallowers." The clinic is sufficiently unusual to attract a good many patients from other parts of the country.

Many Teeth Swallowed.

Dr. B. H. Clert of the bronchoscopic clinic reported on 40 cases in which teeth and dental materials had been swallowed into the esophagus or had been sucked into the windpipe and its branching bronchial tubes by breathing. In 12 of the cases artificial dentures containing from one tooth to almost a full set were extricated from the air and food passages of sufferers. These comparatively large articles slipped down the throats of individuals who were sleeping, eating, under an anesthetic, or suffering from epileptic seizures. In a larger number of the dental cases a single false or natural tooth was inhaled into the windpipe or swallowed.

Occasionally a misplaced dental instrument turns up in the course of explorations of a human chest. Only one kind of dental tool has been found by the Philadelphia clinic, but there have been nine cases in which this little needlelike boring tool was removed from bronchial tubes.

Many of these foreign-body cases reach the clinic months, or even years, after the accident occurred. In some instances the individual was not aware of anything wrong for some time. In others trouble was recognized at once, but the symptoms could not be accounted for. In one case of a not unusual type portions of a crushed tooth were aspirated during the extraction of 20 teeth. The patient was under ether, and it was not until five years later that mysterious symptoms were recognized as being due to a foreign body lodged in the bronchial tube.

Mistake Poisons for Food.

Not all of the children who are brought to the bronchoscopic clinic have obstructions in the chest. Some of the most serious cases are those in which children have swallowed poisons which they mistook for food. People are careful about leaving medicines boldly labeled "Poison" within reach of children, because such poisons are recognized as deadly. There are materials sold by grocers, however, which contain caustic alkalis, but which are less widely known to be poisons.

Lye and similar washing and scrubbing powders are of this type. They are generally pure in the chemical sense and harmless to the hands if properly diluted. Often they are not labeled poison because they are not meant to be taken internally. Yet children find such cleaning powders or solutions on the floor or on low chairs and mistake them for food with terrible results.

The mouth and throat of the victim are so badly burned that he cannot swallow either water or food. Ulcers form in the stomach. Patients of the clinic suffering from lye poisoning generally have to be fed by a rubber tube inserted into the stomach to keep them from dying of hunger and thirst. Some recover; others are too badly burned or too weakened to survive.

For the last 12 years Doctor Jackson has been trying to warn people against the danger of leaving lye within reach of children. A steady stream of lye cases passes through the clinic, he says. At one time there may be seven or eight cases, ranging from mere babies to children old enough to read and understand a warning label, if it were printed in bold type on a package.

Any story of the clinic reads as a warning against carelessness. Its most striking lesson is the hazard of leaving any dangerous substance or article within reach of small children, and of permitting them to handle coins, pins and other things that could be accidentally swallowed.

Baby Elephants Seek Food, Wreck Kitchen

Philadelphia.—Three baby elephants, part of a vaudeville act at a local theater, scored such a smashing hit in private life that their owner, Don Darrah of New York, was held in $300 bail pending repairs to certain parts of the northwest section of Philadelphia.

The trio, confined at night in a garage, took offense at sounds from a balky motor car, snapped their chains and sallied forth.

Fragrant whiffs of breakfast being prepared by Mrs. Anna Dammore in her kitchen halted them, and one investigated by uprooting the fence. Mrs. Dammore, with three young Dammores, sought the roof. The elephants came through the back door, taking it with them.

Baby, one of the runaways, burned his trunk on the stove, seized that article by its underpinning and gave it a course in callisthenics. The other elephants wrecked the icebox and splintered the furniture before leaving.

Police summoned Darrah, who captured his charges.

Alaska Purchase Halted Lease to Private Parties

Seattle.—Information that the government purchase of Alaska in 1867 was completed only after a San Francisco company had been offered a lease of the territory has been revealed in an interview with the late Cornelius Cole, former United States senator, according to Prof. Edmond S. Meany of the University of Washington.

The purchase was made as an alternative to the lease. Mr. Cole told Mr. Farrar that in March, 1867, he negotiated with Baron Stoeckl, minister plenipotentiary of the Russian government, for the lease of Alaska by the San Francisco company.

Horse Shoeing Slumps

London.—Another of Britain's industries is disappearing with the increasing use of motor cars. This is the selling of old horseshoes.

Scrip metal merchants formerly made much money through contracts with horse owners for castoff horseshoes, which were shipped to Manchurian ports and forwarded into the interior for natives to convert into utensils. With a decreasing horse population, this business is gradually dying out.

The Hickle Vaporized Mineral Health Treatment

There are the following features to the treatments aside from their extraordinary Medicinal and Curative Value.

Individual attention is given each and every case.

No extreme temperatures are experienced in the treatments.

There is absolutely no danger of taking cold as the lungs have not been heated, and the pores are all closed.

The root of the disease is attacked by driving off the poisonous acids that accumulate in the body.

The treatment complies in every detail with all the laws of Nature. Physician's directions in individual cases are faithfully and carefully carried out.

The Vaporized Mineral coming in contact with the relaxed body under the proper temperature, builds up the excretory tissues and eliminates the poisons (one of the major causes of the disease and pain)

Dromedary and Camel

Dromedary is a name sometimes given to the Arabian or one-humped camel, but properly belonging to a variety of that species distinguished by slenderness of limbs and symmetry of form and by extraordinary fleetness, "bearing much the same relation to the ordinary camel as a race horse or hunter does to a cart horse."

PROTESTS AT YOKE
IMPOSED BY COLLAR*Writer Demands Justice of Makers of Neckwear.

Styles change faster in collars than anything else that men wear. The collar trust evidently figures that sales can be increased by rapid alteration in names and shapes.

Many men find this a nuisance, as they often cannot buy ready to order the collars which they like best, Girard remarks in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

I wonder if the collar trust is right in its figuring?

Some things which are deemed essential change once where a silly collar name or eighth of an inch in width may change fifty times.

Take cigars and cigarettes. A man will smoke one brand ten years and never desire a change.

Only a simpleton would try to improve a beefsteak by calling it something else.

Leading bakers may hold to a certain recipe for bread for a generation. Your favorite salad dressing may be forty years old, and I suspect the makers of fine cheese would hang anybody who meddled with their formulas.

The highbrows in art crave only old styles in pictures, furniture, rugs, porcelain.

Collar-trust ethics would have it Chippendale today, Reginald tomorrow and John Smith the day after if it made furniture after the collar pattern.

Snuff is a big industry and there are snuffmakers in Pennsylvania whose formula has been a family secret for a century. Not a change in all that time. Yet the snuff users evidently want it just that way.

Men who swear at all, doubtless swear oftener at their collars than anything else in the world.

There is no such thing as getting on familiar terms with collars. They change too often. Men who in olden times stepped up to the same bar and ordered an identical brand of liquor every day for 20 years can scarcely hope to have affection for collars which differ every morning.

The trust won't let us get used to a collar before it is outlawed off the merchant's shelves.

Candy and ice cream and chewing gum go on forever in the same old way—vanilla being as familiar as the tax collector—but people also like them in that same old way.

Old styles and famous names are most valuable assets in almost every trade except collars. There it was Artie yesterday, Bertie today and Gerlie tomorrow, with changes just enough to make the wearer rave.

Once in a while a galley slave escaped, but there seems no way to throw off this dreadful yoke around every man's neck.

"SCRAP OF PAPER"
FATAL TO CRIMINAL*Identification by Typewriting
Not Uncommon.

Every day science is performing feats that overshadow those of the famous detectives of fiction. Take, for example, the seemingly impossible task of identifying a man by his typewriting—running down a machine-made clue.

That a criminal can be traced, captured and convicted through a scrap of typed paper, which apparently is just like any other piece of typing in the world, almost challenges credence; yet to the expert on "questioned documents" such accomplishments are merely in the day's work.

Typewriting is almost as personal as penmanship sometimes, due to certain peculiarities or mannerisms that the typist has developed, says Loren C. Horton, typewriting expert of New York, in Popular Science Monthly. Such clues may be found in spacing, spelling or punctuation.

Some time ago an office of the Department of Justice was astonished to find a confidential letter from its files printed in a magazine. The letter that had been sold to the magazine was obtained, and was found to be a typewritten copy of the original, the latter having been in longhand. This typewritten copy had so many individual characteristics that the copyist might almost as well have signed his name to it. In breaking a word at the end of a line, for example, he invariably inserted a second dash at the beginning of the next line. Also he had a habit of following each semicolon with a dash.

With such personal characteristics as a guide, finding the seller of the letter was a matter merely of elimination among those who had access to the copied letter.

A very slight difference in the length of the cross bars of the "t's" once helped expose as a forgery an alleged will offered for probate in an estate involving many hundred thousands of dollars. The company that made the typewriter on which this document was written only recently had lengthened the cross bars of its "t's," while the "will" was typed on a machine with short cross bars. An attempt apparently had been made to remedy this discrepancy by penciling over the typewriting, but there were so many suspicious points connected with the document that it was not admitted to probate.

In a somewhat similar case a man who tried to alter a document with a machine of later date than that with which the original typing was done attempted to change the length of the cross bar on the "t" by grinding it down with an emery wheel. He succeeded, but only partly, for in doing the work he accidentally shaved the little curl at the bottom of the letter. The odd appearance of the resultant letter aroused suspicion, and magnified photographs of the type showed plainly the marks of the abrasive.

Preserving a Tree

The oldest oak tree in New Jersey, if not in the United States, is very expensive to preserve, according to the pastor of the Presbyterian church at Basking Ridge. In his financial report at the celebration of the two hundred and fourth anniversary of the founding of the church he said that the tree is 93 feet high and 23 feet in circumference and is 400 years old. It is decaying fast, and during the year three tons of concrete were needed to fill the cavities. Thirty-five cables were required to brace it. The labor, concrete and cables cost $3,393.08.

Modern Literature

We may as well confess that our literature by and large is increasing a pretty affair, concerned with the petty affairs of daily life, observes the New York Times. Our novelists do not stretch broad canvases nor rush, like Victor Hugo, at mighty themes. No deep rhythms sweep through our stories, as in those of Thomas Hardy, tossing the mere details of craft like cockleshells.

Our humorists get no farther than manners; Dickens dug up the whole foundation of London. Comparisons might be copied out to fill an agate column, all showing that our standard-gauge literature has become narrow-gauge, and that we are drawing in rather than spreading out. To many readers this may sound catastrophic, but it need not be so unless the current era, too, is catastrophic. For routine literature can be no greater than the age it serves and only a Shakespeare can tower above his time like the Colossus of Rhodes.

Proper Care of Goldfish

Owners of goldfish may be interested in the following advice that an employee of the New York aquarium gives: "When a goldfish begins to 'cluck'—that is, to come to the surface and make strange sounds—it is suffering. The best thing to do is to dip some of the water from the bowl and let it drip back into the aquarium slowly. In that way the water gets a new supply of oxygen, which is what the fish needs. Never change the water too rapidly. If you do, the fish may die of chills or a cold. The water should be kept at a temperature of about seventy degrees.—Youth's Companion.

Odd Monkey Specimen

One of the most interesting specimens in the world zoos was the monkey that didn't have a tail, in Australia. He was the most human-like of all Old-world monkeys on exhibition. He did not have even the vestige of a rudimentary tail and his cry was a single wail, singularly like the cry of a child. He was all black except for a white frontal band over his eyes.

Peculiar Hawaiian Flowers.

It is known that upon many of the summits of the high mountain ridges of the Hawaiian Islands, in the regions of heavy rainfall, are open bogs which support a peculiar and interesting flora. Many species form more or less hemispherical tussocks which rise above the general level of the bog. A showy lobelia with numerous large cream-colored flowers as much as three and a half inches long, peculiar violets and a sundew are found there.

Without Hindrance.

The real democratic American idea is, not that every man shall be on a level with every other, but that every one shall have liberty, without hindrance, to be what God made him.—Beecher.

MORTALITY RATE SHOWS INCREASE

Augmentation in Chicago and Decrease in New York.

Washington.—The death rate in the registration area of the United States increased 12.3 per 1,000 of population in 1923, from 11.8 in 1922. Mortality figures for last year, made public by the department of commerce, show that only seven states out of the total of thirty-eight, comprising the death registration area, had a lower rate than in 1922. These were Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, South Carolina, Utah and Washington.

To afford a true basis of comparison between states and communities, the rate table showed "refined" rates arrived at by adjustment for differences in the age and sex distribution of the population and for deaths of nonresidents.

Maryland with 14.2 per 1,000 showed the highest refined rate among the states, while the lowest, 8.7, was recorded by Montana. Next to Maryland, Louisiana showed a rate of 13.5, while a rate of 13.3 was reported for Florida, Virginia and Delaware. The next lowest rate to that of Montana was Nebraska's figure of 9.3.

Of six states for which the "refined" rate was figured separately for the white population and that classified as "colored," Maryland had the highest rate in both divisions, with 12.6 for white and 22.8 for colored. Mississippi showed the lowest in the group for both, with 9.7 for white and fifteen for colored.

Of the forty-four cities with population exceeding 100,000 for which the refined rate was figured only on the population as a whole, the highest, 15.7 appears for San Antonio and the lowest, 9.5, for Portland, Ore.

Among eleven cities in this population class for which the rate was figured on the race division, Atlanta recorded the highest rate, 31.6, for colored, and New Orleans the highest, 14.5, for white. Norfolk showed the lowest rates for both white and colored with 8.3 and 18.7, respectively.

Among large cities, New York's rate of 12.9 showed a decrease from 13.2 in 1922, while Chicago showed an increase in the period from 12 to 12.6, Boston from 13.3 to 13.5, Philadelphia from 13.3 to 14.1, Pittsburgh from 14.2 to 15.4 and Cleveland from 11.3 to 12.

Tells Just How Warm Your Blankets Are

Do your blankets keep you warm on these cold nights? If they don't, perhaps the United States bureau of standards can tell you why. In tests made in their laboratories, they have learned that blankets of moderate density were found to be more effective for retaining heat when not exposed to air currents. Blankets of lesser density seem to allow too much air to circulate within their structures, while in heavy blankets too much heat escapes by conduction along the fibers. The apparatus for testing the blankets consists of a square metal plate, electrically heated, and provided with means for measuring its temperature. Photograph showing W. H. Willmer of the textile division testing some blanket material.

His Reward

"Howdy, Toke!" saluted an acquaintance from Slippery Slag. "How'd you come out in that pole game tuther night?"

"I didn't get no money, Newt," replied Toke Sagg of Sandy Mush. "But great gosh, look at the experience I had!"—Kansas City Times.

Selecting Frocks for Young Girls

Beautiful Modes Available for Little Misses to Wear at Parties.

A thrill, and one of the sweetest, comes once in a lifetime when the first party dress is selected, says a fashion writer in the New York Times. Nothing has ever seemed or will ever seem quite so important and nothing has ever been known to give more satisfaction, more beatific contentment. It is the early dawn of that peace of mind and poise that come from the feeling that one is well dressed, and to the woman of discriminating taste this feeling is of supreme importance all through her life.

Whenever that great event happens, whether it is just a children's party or something more pretentious a few years later, the occasion is never to be forgotten. The frolics of very little people mean to them a fresh frock not too good to be spoiled by play. The real thrill comes when the affair is a real party.

Parents who have the understanding that all properly trained parents should have make a supreme effort to meet the occasion, and a clever couturiere co-operates with more enthusiasm than she can ever feel in the work she does for grownups. It is a challenge to the intuition, the taste, the fine sense of propriety in the artist, the making of this party dress.

White Fur, Muff and Warm Leggings for the Tiny Tots.

and it is not an easy task. It is vitally important that the young person shall show she is no longer a baby. Also that she shall not appear too grownup or be dressed too sophisticatedly.

We Americans have much to learn from the people of England and the continent. They all delight to dress their children as "young" as possible, which seems to keep them so. This is what every woman devoutly desires, but the thing that is most elusive among the small fry this side of the water. The shingled head has done much to equalize the years, and the little girl and the debutante are so much alike that the distinction is not always simple. Not any of these considerations discount the importance of that first party dress.

The styles in frocks for little girls of the difficult age, when angular lines and awkwardness are the rule, have never been more attractive than they are this season. With infinite skill Parisian artists have modified the extremes with which even the children's and misses' clothes have lately been marked and have seized upon the new features that best become the younger people. The result is a display of charming frocks, coats and accessories as varied, in a way, as the maturer models, but consistently and properly "jeunesse."

Short Puffed Sleeves.

The latest ideas in sleeves—the short puffed sleeve that gives such a quaint effect in dancing frocks and the long sleeve that adds demure dignity to the daytime dress—are among the welcome changes in styles for children. Another change is the length of skirt, still so very short for the tiny tots, but perceptibly longer for the girl whose legs so quickly outgrow her silhouette. And there are the collar and cuff sets that add such an air of daintiness to a simple frock.

These points and others combine to present a jeune fille style that is delightful, illustrated in a number of models created by some of the most important designers in Paris. People of such prestige as Paquin, Alice Bernard, Chanel and Vionnet delight in making fashions for young and very young people, giving them all the subtle charm, fine quality and tone one might look for in the gowns of a lady of importance in the beau monde. In these the most admirable restraint and the nicest sense of fitness are reflected. Many of the little models are works of art in the highest degree in the designing of clothes.

Paquin, for example, leaves for the moment his larger problems to create a sweetly pretty, altogether Parisian little party dress of baby blue taffeta, trimmed with border half the length of the skirt, with a cross-wise shirring and strips of silver embroidery. Some of this shirring is applied on the front of the bodice, which is only slightly longer than the normal waistline. A narrow belt of silver ribbon is tied in a bow-knot, with ends at one side.

In sharp contrast to this winsome frock is a merry one of geranium pink velvet made quite plain, with a suggestion of the directoire in its lines. The waist is perfectly plain, with a deep cape collar of plaited chiffon opening in front. The skirt, which ends just below the knee, is laid in deep box plaits, and has wee stiff cravat bows of ribbon sewn each side of the front, as the plaits meet.

Of still another quite different type is a robe de style done by a French modiste, in apple green taffeta. This frock has no furbelows, but the skirt which is gathered full to the plain, sleeveless bodice, is trimmed with three bands of the silk, each scalloped at the edge. This little dress has the air of a "period" costume and is quite long. The little low-heeled slippers of green kid are worn with flesh-colored chiffon stockings.

Material Is Important.

Lanvin's things for children are usually important as to material, and they have a certain dignity which requires much skill to keep from them any suggestion of maturer styles. One lately shown by a New York importer is distinctly smart, of dark blue velvet, embroidered on the pockets and down the front with gold-brown silk. The waist is a deep blouse. The skirt is laid in kilt plaits around the side and back, and is barely knee-length.

In another model from this house, a coat of hunter's green velvet is cut in straight line with a high, rather military collar, and is embroidered in silver down the front, wrists and neck.

Lanvin completes these chic little affairs by designing for each a variant of the cloche bonnet, and invariably adds ribbon streamers at the back.

Black velvet is used by many of the designers of dresses for young girls, and most people consider it well to have at least one black velvet frock in the girl's winter wardrobe. One model just brought out is unusually smart. It is cut after the pattern of the latest blouse, almost to the knee, to which is added a slightly godetted flounce having large motifs in scarlet silk chain-stitch embroidery applied over the joining. A piping in scarlet silk outlines all the edges of the frock, which is sleeveless and cut in slightly bateau line at the neck.

In a unique and particularly dainty little party dress, pale blue grosgrain ribbon with plicated edges and shot with silver is used in straight bands across the neck, in stripes down the sides from shoulder to hem, and tied in a bow to hold the slight fullness at the waistline under each arm.

Ribbon Is in Favor.

The vogue of ribbon in children's frocks is illustrated in many different styles. On one delicious little frock, pale yellow moire ribbon is sewn perpendicularly in strips close together, covering the entire front and back of the dress of fine white net, over a slip of peach-colored taffeta. Ribbon of the same shade of yellow in a wide width is drawn around the hips.

Frock of Pale Green Crepe, Neckline Edged With Ribbon.

caught on one side with a tiny nose-gay of French flowers and tied at the other side in a large bow with ends that hang below the edge of the skirt.

Ribbon is used again in an adorable party dress of flowered georgette in shades of peach, periwinkle blue and gold, veiling a slip of apricot-colored silk. The ribbon is in narrow frills to edge a deep double cape collar back and front. This same little plaiting outlines the waist and forms a chou and ends over one hip. These are among the many attractive costumes received from the best designers of children's clothes, and are intended to be worn by little girls ten to thirteen years old.

The coats, the little trotteur, the raglan, the long straight coat of any one of the new woolsens, made three-quarter or seven-eighths length, are all fashionable.

MAYAS OLDEST OF CIVILIZED TRIBES

Had Mathematical System 2,000 Years Before India.

Berkeley, Cal.—The Maya tribes of Mexico, ancestors of the Aztecs, probably had the oldest civilization in the world and evolved the first system of mathematics, according to Prof. A. L. Kroeber of the University of California department of anthropology, who has just returned from making excavations in Yucatan.

Professor Kroeber said the Maya civilization dated back at least 2,000 years before the time mathematical calculation as used now was first established in India in the Fifth century. Some scientists estimate, he added, that the Mayas flourished as far back as 5,000 years before the Fifth century.

"As the Greeks preceded the Romans with a high standard of civilization, so the Mayas preceded the Aztecs in Mexico," he continued. "Buried pottery and ruins of cities recently discovered show a high state of civilization, between 200 and 600 A. D., by a race known as the Mayas, which was copied later by the Aztecs."

"The Mayas in Yucatan achieved higher things in art and literature as well as in science. They were the inventors. The Toltecs immediately preceded the Aztecs and doubtless gave them the benefits of Maya civilization."

"About the year 600 A. D., when the decline of the Mayas began, started a period about which little is known, but it may be assumed that the culture of the Mayas was carried to the north from Yucatan into the high plateau country where Mexico City stands."

"The Aztec records cover about two centuries prior to the Spanish conquest. The Aztecs ruled their captive tribes with a high hand, taking from them the tribute which enabled them to build their cities."

Ink From the Maple

A home-made ink was, in earlier days, sometimes made from the bark of the red maple by boiling it and adding sulphate of iron, says the American Tree association. It contains considerable tannin, and, at one time, was occasionally employed in dyeing.

When a Man's Hard-Boiled

"Hard-boiled" came into general use during the World war. It is slang and is applied to a person hardened in mind or feeling and insensitive to the sufferings of others. Originally, of course, it referred merely to the condition of a hard-boiled egg.

HOUSE WILL VOTE JANUARY 27TH ON CHILD LABOR ACT

To Limit Sale of Jamaica Ginger To Groceries and Drug Stores May Be Offered.

Tuesday, January the 27th has been selected for the vote on the child labor amendment in the house of representatives. If the measure is defeated, it will not be taken up in the senate. Generally speaking, business interests and farmers have opposed the amendment and labor organizations and women's clubs have favored it. A lively fight is expected this week on the Collier amendment to the Freeman-Collier bus law. Advocates of the amendment say it means home rule over city bus lines, but bus owners declared that it would put many of them out of business. It is said that if the amendment is adopted a bus owner will be compelled to obtain a permit in every municipality through which his buses travel and will be forced to abide by regulations set up in each municipality no matter how conflicting they may be. Enactment of a gasoline tax was advocated by the State Tax Association at its meeting last week.

Senator Bender of Cleveland, has introduced several bills to aid in the enforcement of prohibition laws. It is understood a bill also will be introduced preventing the sale of Jamaica ginger in pool rooms, ice cream parlors, shoe shining shops and other places and limiting its sale entirely to bonafide groceries and drug stores.

Full Military Honors at Squaw Man's Burial

Sam Terry, beloved "Siksela" and squaw man of the Sioux, lies buried in the Rosebud Indian reservation in St. Francis, S. D. Full military honors were accorded the old United States scout and former Indian fighter by the American Legion as his body was lowered to its last resting place.

Samuel Mark Terry, nephew of General Terry of Civil war and Indian war fame, was born in New York September 1, 1830. Sam joined the United States army in 1858 and a gunshot wound received in the Civil war caused him to wear a silver plate in his throat for the rest of his life.

Handicapped by the wound and undaunted by loss of his toes by freezing while he was engaged in army messenger and scout work for Uncle Sam around the army posts in the land of the Sioux Indians, Sam Terry continued in the government service until romance conquered him.

His detachment was about to attack an Indian village in 1867, with orders to kill every man. During the fighting figures were seen hiding in the tall grass. One of the soldiers was about to shoot when Sam ordered him to wait. Search of the grass revealed two Indian girls. After the attack, one of these persisted in pursuing Terry until he became a squaw man and a real lover of the Indians.

Old-timers declare Sam Terry was a noble character. He served his country for 23 years, and after his adoption by the Indians he helped bring about a mutual understanding between them and Washington.

Where the Hairpins Go

There is a very charming fairy story written concerning the land where all lost points go, says the St. Joseph News-Press. So completely do vast quantities of pins disappear from human sight that it seems there must be some magic in their vanishment. But the pretty fairy story is far from the sordid reality of the discovery, the other day, of many of the lost pins, especially hairpins. When sheriffs raided squatters who were occupying shacks on the Chicago dump, a pile of thirty tons of wire articles, mostly hairpins, was discovered.

The discarded hairpins covered a space fifty feet square and the pile was four feet deep. Evidently girls and women who bobbed their hair had thrown away their collection of hairpins and those who profit from sorting trash had assembled the remarkable collection. Freedom from the thrall of pins sticking into or pressing their heads is said to be one of the great advantages of women's shorn locks, though facetious men have complained that the loss of this household article means the deprivation of handy nutpicks and of a wire to hold damaged galluses. Yet their alleged consternation is nothing in comparison with the plight of hairpin manufacturers.

Meaning of "Alabama"

It has long been a matter of tradition that the name "Alabama" had the romantic meaning of "Here We Rest." This originated about seventy-five years ago and gained wide-spread popularity through the writings of Judge Meek, who handled the history of the state in a volume which was very generally accepted. Some recent philological research has upset this. Rev. Allen Wright, a highly educated Choctaw, says that it means "thicket clearers." That was originally the name of a tribe of Indians which inhabited that part of the country and the name was always given to the river and afterwards to the state. In his opinion the word is compounded from "Alba," meaning a thicket or mass of vegetation, and "amo," to clear or gather up. Another student of tribal dialects concurs in this belief, with the slightly different definition of "vegetation gatherers."

Man Before Radio

Edgar A. DeForest, the radio inventor, said at a Minneapolis reception:

"Radio is so wonderful that the average man feels before it like the farmer at the seashore."

"A farmer on his first visit to the seashore went down to the beach at low tide and saw a big fishing smack lying high and dry on the sand."

"'Hey, mister,' he said to a fisherman, 'how do you get that big boat down to the water?'"

"'We don't take the boat down to the water, shipmate,' said the fisherman, with a smile. 'The water comes up to the boat.'"

"The farmer laughed."

"'Yes, mister,' he said, 'I know I'm from the country, all right, all right, but you needn't think I'm goin' to swaller that.'"

Power

"I can turn you out a statue," declared a boaster. "I can turn you out a painting or novel. I can turn you out a song."

"With all that," commented a bystander, "you ain't nearly so powerful as that little fellow over yonder."

"Who is he?"

"He's a landlord. He can turn you out,"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Preparedness

Reggie—Phyllis said that she was going to let me give her swimming lessons. We start with them tomorrow.

Archie—You lucky dog. But where are you going in such a hurry tonight?

Reggie—Be prepared is my motto. I'm going to learn to swim.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

"FIGHTING JOE" IS NATIONAL CHAPLAIN

"Fighting Joe" is the title which has been bestowed by general consent on Rev. Joseph Lonergan of Durand, Ill., recently elected national chaplain of the American Legion. And the title is not airy tinsel, either. It has a background.

For it harks back to kid days when as a boy with two fists who knew how to use them and Father Joe sometimes found employment for them in ways other than earning money by working on railroad tracks to go to college. The story goes back to the time when he was a famous football star, "the miracle halfback" at St. Vlator's college.

The nickname recalls a baseball career culminating in a batting average for his last year of .448, rather a big league average. It carries a picture of Father Joe, the ecclesiastical student at Montreal, tying up his priestly soutane above his knees and sliding bases like Ty Cobb. It is reminiscent of the young priest at Aurora, Ill., who appeared in the pulpit one day with a bulging black eye—fruit of too strenuous endeavors to show his eighth-graders in the school league he organized how to take 'em hot off the bat.

Then comes the time when Father Joe took up his work with the Eighty-sixth division organizing at Camp Grant. He was without military status and without salary, but he carried on. While there he lectured to all officers at Camp Grant on the necessity of religion. Shortly afterward he got a commission as first lieutenant chaplain, and began his extraordinary activity in the fighting game. It was he who spoke at Camp Grant's greatest day, July 4, 1918, when he addressed 50,000 of the division gathered there. A sentence stood out, which was flashed over the country: "A man never became a man until he got a good punch on the nose."

Then the Argonne and the Vosges. Father Joe says that when the shooting was close he became Dugout Joe, but the boys don't say that. They think he's all man. The chaplain reorganized a band for the Twelfth engineers, "the band with a personality," chosen by the French mission to accompany them when they took over Alsace and Strassburg from the Germans. He was transferred to the Ninetieth division and remained with them until he was discharged. Membership in the American Legion followed soon and then his election as department chaplain for Illinois in 1922. In 1924 he was unanimously named national chaplain. That's the story of "Fighting Joe" Lonergan, whose record at the front with the men endeared him to all veterans and makes him a very popular "padre."

Legion Posts Aim to Cut Down Fire Loss

"The source of America's largest and most preventable waste is fires, and American Legion posts and departments throughout the country are taking up the problem with an aim to appreciably cut down the loss annually of millions of dollars from fire," declared Legionnaire J. H. Dulaney. He and W. S. Atkinson are heading the department of Oklahoma's move for fire prevention. Both are leaders in the Oklahoma Fire Prevention association. The American Legion, department of California, has been active in fire prevention in the redwood forests on the coast the past year.

Prize for Student

It's time to reward the studious lad with the bulging cerebrum, as well as the campus hero of bulging biceps, declared the A. A. Mountain post of the American Legion of McMechen, W. Va. Accordingly, they offered a substantial cash prize to the high school student whose scholarship record is best during the year.

New Railroad Equipment

An electric "track-walking car" which makes possible detailed examination of railroad tunnels and the immediate repair of any minor defects has been developed in Germany. Previously a pedestrian track-walker has been used to make these inspections and report necessary repairs after each trip. With the "track-walking car," which is especially designed to be driven by electricity or hauled by an ordinary locomotive, the repair crew goes along and is available to make repairs at once. A battery of 54 electric lights provides ample illumination for work in tunnels.

OHIO UTILITIES AGREE TO MOVE STREET LIGHT

Ordinance Regulating Parking of Motor Vehicles Was Introduced.

Council met in regular session Wednesday evening, January 21, with President John C. Goeller, presiding and all members present.

Mr. Shaner, chairman of the finance committee submitted a schedule showing the appropriations for the fiscal half year ending June 30, 1925. After due consideration and on motion of Mr. Shaner the schedule as prepared by the finance committee was accepted and approved.

Mr. Baker reported that the Ohio Utilities company had agreed to move the street light now located on West Franklin street, a distance of about one hundred feet west, without charge to the city. The director of public service was requested to have the Ohio Utilities company move this street light as reported.

Mr. Leist reported that the director of public service would furnish an estimate of the probable cost of making the repairs and changes in the basement of the city building as recommended by Mr. T. P. Kearns, state inspector.

Mr. Shaner as chairman of the committee consisting of all members of council to whom had been referred the ordinance providing for the issuing of bonds for the purchase of the Pickaway Water company's plant stated that the committee was not ready as yet to make a report and asked for further time; there being no objections further time was granted.

Director of Public Service Schneider reported to council that it would cost between $600 and $700 to place a new ceiling and cement floor in the basement of the city building to cut down the windows and change the stairway and also to place a steel ceiling in the mayor's office and court room. On motion the report was received.

Director Schneider reported to council that the Ohio Utilities company would remove its poles off South Court street and place the same in the alley.

An ordinance making appropriations for the current expenses for the city during the fiscal half year ending June 30, 1925, in the following amounts, was read for the first time.

General government fund.....$3,068 00
Public safety fund.....6,330 00
Public health fund.....390 00
Public service fund.....14,025 00
Public library fund.....2,960 00

The rules were suspended and this ordinance was placed upon its passage and was passed.

A resolution appointing A. J. Lyle, Charles Mason and Lewis I. Morris, three disinterested free holders as a board to estimate the assessments of the cost on the lots and lands abutting on Franklin street for the paving of Franklin street, was introduced and read for the first time.

On motion of Mr. Baker the rules were suspended and this resolution was adopted.

An ordinance regulating the parking of motor vehicles within a certain distance from the property and curb line from any corner formed by the crossing of intersecting of certain streets with each other was introduced and read for the time. On motion of Mr. Marion the rules were suspended and the ordinance placed upon its passage.

Girl Commercial Sculptor

Miss Merle Foster, a young Canadian girl, has found a calling that is bringing her success. She is a commercial sculptor. When an architect wants a wall or cornice decoration, a griffin or a gargoyle, he consults Miss Foster who attended the art school in Toronto for six years, where she proved that she has a rare talent for modeling.

The first time that the girl saw a potter at his wheel she asked for the privilege of trying her hand in a wheel of work and was amazed at the facility with which she turned out a vase, says a writer in the Argonaut. In a few months she had become an expert at the wheel and was able to give an exhibition of pottery in a large department store. Next she learned that there was a big field in the modeling of architectural details, medallions, fountains, garden urns and wall ornaments, and set about acquiring technical knowledge. When she had attained sufficient experience she opened her own studio and with her sister as business manager has been most successful.

TRACES SOURCE OF 'AMERICAN BEAUTY'

Geography of Cosmetics Seen to Be Shifting.

Washington, D. C.—"The geography of cosmetics is shifting," says a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society. "Formerly the women of the United States drew upon the more sophisticated countries of Europe for the boxed and bottled substances that alter their appearance for better or for worse. Now they are coming more and more to use what might be called 'made in America' complexion," and the country is even exporting aids to beauty to the ends of the earth.

"The big three in the world of cosmetics are powder, rouge and cream; and of these stand-bys of the feminine toilet table the United States exports about $2,500,000 worth annually. This probably is close to the value of the imports of these specific substances, for the greater part of the $9,000,000 worth of 'perfumery and cosmetics' brought into the country each year is made up of perfumes and perfume materials. Many times the amount of the exports and imports of powders, creams and rouges are consumed in American homes—and on American street corners—for the value of the products turned out annually by the perfumers and cosmetic manufacturers of the United States is between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000.

"For the best rouge the consumers of the United States must still look beyond the country's borders. The original coloring material was dried red corollas of the thistlelike safflower plant of the Near East. The plant is cultivated in France and still is the source of the bloom on millions of rosy cheeks. Much of the coloring matter of commercial rouges is carmine, the red obtained from the crushed, dried bodies of the cochineal insect, also a foreign substance.

Face Powders.

"Face powders are made of ground and bolted talc and chalk, rice powder and corn powder. Of the last named ingredient America possesses vast quantities, but unfortunately the grains of cornstarch are about three times the size of those of rice starch, and therefore do not make as high-grade face powders. Much rice is grown in the United States and home-produced as well as imported rice powder is metamorphosed into the Poudre de Riz of the cosmetic counter.

"Tremendous quantities of talc and chalk are used annually in the form of talcum powder and in combination with rice and corn powders. Low-grade powders are made from domestic talc mined in several eastern states, but for highest grade powders the manufacturers import their materials. Annual imports of talc and chalk amount to about 10,000,000 pounds from Italy and 5,000,000 pounds from France.

"Cold cream is the typical cosmetic and one of the oldest of the beauty aids used today. Savages started the cold cream habit millions of years ago with rancid butter and salt.

"Face powders and rouges are largely for application to the cheeks, but no other facial feature has been permitted to escape the cosmetic specialist. There are henna and other washes for the hair, eyebrow pencils, lipsticks, lash pastes, and 'shadow' coloring for eyelids. In addition the well appointed cosmetic shop offers hand lotions, and nail polishes and enamels, and such general cosmetics as skin foods, complexion clays and sunburn removers.

"Henna is extracted from the leaves of an Egyptian plant. The coloring matter of eyebrow pencils and lash pastes may be India ink or coal-tar dyes. Most lipsticks are made of greases stiffened with beeswax and colored with carmine or safflower. The majority of the hand lotions and vanishing creams contain glycerin, of which the United States produces ample quantities. Nail polishes usually contain tin oxide and nail varnishes and enamels consist of resinous gums, mostly imported. The ingredient par excellence for 'skin foods' is cocoa butter, the fat produced as a by-product in chocolate and cocoa manufacture. The cocoa butter imported as such comes chiefly from the Netherlands and Germany.

United States Helps World Keep Clean.

"Soap, the basic substance in the toilets of men and women alike, is made in vast quantities in the United States, and more than $3,000,000 worth is exported annually. Various oils, treated with alkalis, are used in soap manufacture, including our own cottonseed oil. Coconut, olive and palm oils are the standard fatty substances employed, however. Annually the Philippines contribute $16,000,000 worth of coconut oil, while $50,000,000 worth of olive oil comes from Italy and Spain, and $55,000,000 worth of palm oil is imported directly from British West Africa and via England from other tropical countries.

"The history of soap is closely intertwined with the history of modern civilization. It is believed that the Phoenicians were the first to make soap and that they taught the art to the Gauls. The Gauls in turn taught the Romans their rather crude method of treating tallow with wood ashes. The Romans improved the method somewhat. A complete soap factory whose product was doubtless highly prized by the beauties of ancient Rome, has been found among the ruins of Pompeii. From Rome the use of soap has continually spread farther and farther. One might say that civilization has slipped around the world on a film of soap."

From Monastery to Hotel

Wonderful stories have been told of the courage and devotion of the monks of the Trappist monastery on the Grand St. Bernard pass, and their equally famous and wonderful dogs. Now this historic institution is doomed to pass, and the monastery is to be converted into a hotel under the direction of a professional manager. Tourists will have to pay ordinary hotel rates during their stay. The reason apparently is that visitors have not given to the church box as liberally as they might, though this is a curious commentary on the type of persons now using the Swiss roads. When one stayed at the hospice in the past, really excellent, though plain, fare was provided, and the answer to the query as to the amount of the bill was always the same, "What you would pay for similar accommodation at a hotel."

Experimental.

"Dad," inquired a small boy, "what is a test case?" "A test case, my son," replied his parent, "is a case brought into court to decide whether there's enough in it to justify lawyers in working up more cases of a similar kind!"

KEEPING WELL

REVIVING THE UNCONSCIOUS

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN

Editor of "HEALTH"

WHAT would you do if you found someone, possibly a member of your own family, unconscious from gas poisoning or electrical shock? What could you do to revive a drowned person? Lose precious minutes waiting for a doctor, because you did not know what to do to get air into the lungs? Many lives which might have been saved have been lost, because no one knew what to do or how to do it.

Different plans for resuscitation have been proposed. About fifteen years ago the National Electric Light association and the American Society of Electrical Engineers became interested in this question, on account of the large number of accidents in electric power and light plants. With the co-operation of the American Medical association, a committee of expert physiologists and electrical engineers was formed, which spent a year studying and experimenting on the different methods. They found that the so-called Schafer method was the best. Pamphlets and charts showing how to use this method were widely distributed and are now posted in all electric plants, life-saving stations and first-aid stations. The Red Cross has also distributed many thousands of these charts.

But there are still many who do not know how to perform artificial respiration, by which an unconscious person can be revived.

What happens in drowning, gas poisoning or electrical shock is that the respiratory center in the brain is paralyzed. The victim is not dead, but he will be in a short time, unless air is forced into the lungs and breathing started again.

The four steps in the Schafer method are: (1) Loosen the clothing at the neck and waist. (2) Turn the body face down, pass your arms under the victim's waist, lock your fingers and jerk the body up three or four times. (3) Draw the tongue forward and with your index finger clear the mouth of false teeth, gum, food, tobacco or anything which may obstruct breathing. (4) Stretch the arms above the head, then bend one arm at the elbow and place the head in the arm with the face out. These movements only take a minute.

Straddle the body, with your knees just above those of the unconscious person. Place your hands around the victim's back just above but close to the hip bone. With your arms stiff, throw your weight on the body, pressing in with your fingers. Keep up the pressure while you count two. Raise the hands sharply while you count three. Repeat this alternate pressure and relaxation until the victim starts breathing. Don't wait, don't waste time with mechanical apparatus. Don't stop until the victim is breathing or until you know he's dead.

Loss of Manure on Dairy Farms

Nearly One-Half of Value of Fertilizer Is Allowed to Go to Waste.

It has been claimed that the annual value of the manure from a cow is equal to the feeding value of the skim milk produced by her. But judging from the way these two products are handled on the average farm, the skim milk must be considered of much greater value, for the reason that little of this is allowed to go to waste, while, according to statistics, nearly one-half of the value of the manure is lost on the average farm, says a writer in the Indiana Farmers' Guide. It is evident that on many farms the real value of manure is not fully understood, and that there is much lack of knowledge concerning the best methods of handling it so as to get its full value.

Liquid Is Richest.

The urine, as a rule, is much richer in fertilizing constituents than the dung, containing more than half the nitrogen voided by the animal, hence, all of this portion of the voidings possible should be saved, and to do this it is necessary in the first place to have water-tight gutters and floors, made with cement. The next requirement is a sufficient amount of clean, porous bedding, such as will absorb practically all of the liquid. Straw and cut corn stalks make good bedding material and hold a great deal of liquid. Powdered absorbents, such as ground phosphate rock, has also been used as an absorbent, and this material not only absorbs moisture, but also holds in the ammonia being liberated from the manure.

Half of Value Lost.

Where no precautions are taken against leaching and fermentation, more than one-half the value of the manure may be lost. Bacterial action also causes more or less loss. It has been proved by experience that manure placed in a pile in the usual way will lose nearly one-half of its value when exposed to the weather for five or six months. Every rain washes a certain percentage of the soluble matter away. Losses from leaching may be entirely avoided by placing the manure in a shallow concrete pit provided with a roof. No farmer can afford to be without a covered storage for manure.

If the manure can be hauled out as soon as produced and spread on the ground where there is no danger of its being washed away, this is the most economical way. But on many farms the lay of the land is such that quite a large per cent of the manure will be lost by washing during the winter and spring season.

Pays to Fatten Poultry Before Birds Are Sold

The finisher of poultry cannot remain in business unless he can make some profit, and the farm poultry raiser needs the finisher. It is estimated that at least one-half of the poultry sold off the farm is fattened at feeding stations before it reaches the market. The market will not take poultry in the condition of flesh in which most of it leaves the farm. Farmers may not generally appreciate this, but such is the case. The fact is that farmers should pen-feed their cull hens and pullets before attempting to sell them, because they can do so at a good profit, even with the present high price of corn. Farmers may not be in a position to crate-feed, but this is not necessary when done on a small scale on the farm. Pen-feeding will give practically as good results as crate-feeding on the farm, but birds cannot be profitably fattened unless their range is greatly restricted. To fatten the birds while they are running at large is a losing proposition. Under such conditions they run off the flesh about as fast as they lay it on.

Heeling in Trees

When you buy trees and plan not to set them until toward spring they should be heeled in. To have them handy to set when you are ready they should be heeled in in upright position in a single row, and each bunch with the labeled tree the last to be set. To do this begin each row with the labeled tree and when all of that variety are set leave space enough after it to give room for removing it when you want it, and then set the labeled tree of the next sort. By this method you can set any trees you wish at any time and keep them labeled in the row until the last tree is set. Heel the trees in rather deeply, and work the soil in about the roots well, almost as thoroughly as if you were setting them, and you will have them in fine condition.

Feed for Fall Pigs

Feeding the fall farrowed pig should be given careful attention. He needs a substitute for the green feed the summer pig gets to keep him thrifty and healthy. The best winter substitute for green feed is alfalfa hay of good quality. Fall pigs fed on a ration consisting of corn and tankage in proper proportions and having free access to fine alfalfa hay will gain and thrive almost as well as spring pigs on alfalfa pasture if protected from cold and disease. The protein requirements must also be met. This will require one-half pound of tankage per head per day. Where tankage and alfalfa hay are fed mineral mixtures are not needed.

One Hundred Short

THINGS were at a pretty pass at the State Street National bank. Franklin Heath, the president, and Ed Connors, head of a local detective agency, sat discussing the situation.

"It's plainly up to you, Ed," reminded the president impatiently. Connors' face colored. Finally the operative whirled about and addressed the president:

"Last night I personally watched your paying teller, Hargraves, balance his currency—it was O. K. I watched every move he made between his cage and the value—nothing could possibly have been taken out of it; yet, he is one hundred dollars short again today! Five times in the last month that has happened—and the worst part of it is that it only has once more to happen and then my chances of ever solving the mystery here are gone forever."

"What makes you think it will not happen more than six times?" "Just this: your bank has not been the only one victimized. For the past year reports have been coming in showing that someone is making a systematic cleanup. It is always the paying teller's cage they strike at, and never for over a hundred at a time. The teller finds himself short six different times, always within the period of thirty days or less. After the sixth hundred has vanished the losses stop. They were interrupted at this juncture by a polite tap upon the door.

"Come in," called President Heath. A tall, slim, blue eyed-youth stepped quietly into the room.

"I beg your pardon," began Hargraves politely. "If you are busy—I thought that you were alone in here, else—"

"What is it in reference to, Hargraves," prompted the president.

"Why, the strange disappearance of currency from my cage—"

"You may speak freely; Mr. Connors here, is as anxious to solve the mystery as you or I."

"I had thought that perhaps you would discuss the matter alone with me, Mr. Heath," replied Hargraves. "The matter of reward for the apprehension of the thief and the showing up of his methods; you see, naturally, the officer here would expect—"

"Listen here, son," broke in Connors, "if you nail this bird, I'll not only pass the reward on to you—and altogether I think it approximates some four thousand dollars—but I'll add a hundred of my own."

"And I'll do better than that. If you are smart enough to catch the man who's been doing this thing and discover his methods, I'll not only guarantee you a good raise, but promise you the first thing in the line of advancement that opens up around here." The clerk's face brightened.

"I hope you gentlemen won't think me wholly mercenary; but, you see, I was thinking of getting married and—well—to make a long story short, I have already caught the thief!" "There wasn't anything hard about it," went on Hargraves, apologetically; "you see, I have an exceptionally good memory. If Mr. Connors will stand by my window for the first hour or so, after we open tomorrow, I'm sure the man will come in. The next morning, at a quarter of eleven, Connors, noting the movement of the hand to hair by Hargraves, the movement which, by prearrangement had been agreed upon as a signal, quietly walked up and snapped a bracelet upon the man's wrist as he received the money for a check he had just cashed. Another clerk relieved Hargraves, and they all adjourned to the president's office.

The prisoner, one Mr. Henry W. Southmore, addressed the president in an excess of purple rage.

"Mr. Heath, what the devil does this mean?" A little puzzled, Mr. Heath turned to the thoroughly confident Hargraves.

"Surely there must be some mistake; why, I opened this man's account here myself. He was well recommended; our dealings with him have been highly satisfactory—what evidence have you of your contentions?" Young Hargraves looked down at the check which he held in his hand.

"You just lay this check in front of you on your desk and watch it disappear," he smiled. The detective and the banker eyed the clerk as though he were demented.

"Will you please explain yourself," ordered the banker ominously.

"Sure," agreed Hargraves easily.

"I have an excellent memory. The first time I ran my checks on the adding machine, after the first hundred shortage, I thought that I had missed one of this man's checks. The second time I got the notion that I had lost one of his checks. I decided that my memory couldn't have played me false two times in succession, and when he came the next time I laid his check aside to be sure that I would remember it. When I went to get it, in the afternoon at closing time, there was no check there—merely a blank piece of paper. Not only had the writing upon it vanished, but even in forming the printed check itself, he used sympathetic ink. It's a darn shame to spoil such a beautiful scheme, but I want to get married pretty bad."

"Don't forget to take his fountain pen as evidence," reminded Hargraves with a grin, and hustle along the reward check—remember, I have an excellent memory."

Cleveland, Feb. 3—Fanned by a stiff wind from the lake fire early today swept the auditorium garage building with a loss estimated at $100,000. The blaze is believed to have started from over heated salamanders placed to dry fresh concrete.

Gallipolis, O., Feb. 2—Announcement was made that the Burley Tobacco Growers' Cooperative association has sold 50,000,000 pounds of tobacco to three eastern companies for approximately $15,000,000.

Cincinnati, Feb. 2—Oscar Naylor, 69 wrote a letter to his brother in Columbus telling him how to dispose of his body and then shot and killed himself here today.

Gallion, O., Feb. 2—Bread prices remained the same here but pies jumped from twenty-five cents to thirty-five cents.

Delaware, O., Feb. 3—After a thrilling race over ice coated highways a man believed to be Ralph Lewis, 27, Ft. Wayne, Indiana, jail breaker and forger, eluded Sheriff Fred Harter near here last night.

Pursuing Lewis towards Columbus in an automobile Harter had many narrow escapes as his car skidded and several times locked fenders with the one in which Lewis was fleeing.

Near Worthington, after Harter had ridden the car ahead of him with bullets Lewis' automobile went into a ditch and the alleged forger vanished into the night on foot.

Sheriff Harter followed a trail of blood a few rods from the wrecked car but it soon ended and no other clues as to Lewis' whereabouts could be found.

KEEP PHOTOS OF FAMOUS BRITISH

2,000 Likenesses of Great
Gathered for Posterity.

London.—The National Portrait gallery is compiling photographs of distinguished men and women in all fields of British life.

Already 2,000 of the great and near-great have posed for this national collection.

Very few of the faces in the collection are feminine.

It is an exceptional person, man or woman, who becomes distinguished before the age of forty. Some of the beauty of women often fades before then, so that the trustees of the National Portrait gallery have not been greatly surprised when, in several instances, after inviting a distinguished woman to have her picture made for their collection, the lady visited a photographer, but refused to approve of the result.

Photographs of more than 150 of the distinguished contemporaries, as the trustees of the gallery call those whom they invite to sit for their collection, have recently been placed on public exhibition. Most of the faces are old, but some of them, notably John Drinkwater's, the dramatist, are on the sunny side of middle age.

Only one man in the collection wears a monocle—Austen Chamberlain, the foreign secretary.

There are grizzled old shipbuilding magnates, authors, artists, musicians, doctors of medicine and surgeons, railroad officials. There is the rugged, smiling countenance of T. P. O'Connor, father of the house of commons; Winston Churchill, with his floodgates collar and studiously careless bow tie; the archbishop of Canterbury, with a shaggy, drooping brow almost hiding one of his eyes; the lord chancellor with long wig and close-clipped mustache; Mr. Asquith and scores of other somebodies and almost-somebodies.

One of these days, it is hoped, the national gallery will set aside a room in which to hang photographic enlargements of prominent people; after their death, of course. No canvas can now be hung in the gallery until the subject has been dead ten years or more.

Sometimes when a deceased man of prominence is honored by selection for the gallery, no adequate photograph from which to make a painting can be found. Under the new system of compiling photographs of all distinguished people, this will never happen again.

The compilation was begun in 1915; it will probably go on forever.

250,000 Men Received Summer Army Training

Washington.—More than 250,000 men received some degree of intensive military training under War department supervision last summer. The period of training ranged from fifteen days to three months. The bulk of the training was in the National Guard camps.

The reports show that in the twenty-nine civilian training camps held this year the attendance was the maximum which could be admitted and cared for with funds available to the War department for the purpose. The number actually at the camps, 33,983, for thirty days, was a big increase over last year, while the number of applications received amounted to 53,000.

Of that number, 44,000 proved to have the physical and other qualifications necessary for admission, so that approximately 10,000 youngsters were disappointed in their hope to go through a training camp course last summer.

A phase of the organized reserve corps work during the summer to which the War department attaches particular importance is the application for the first time of the principle of unit training to these organizations.

The Defense day test, on the face of official reports from all over the country, served to bring out sharply the benefit of this unit training scheme, War department officials say.

1,500 Americans Wear Ribbon of French Legion

Paris.—Crosses awarded in wartime and during the reconstruction period have increased the membership of the Legion of Honor from about 15,000 in 1914 to approximately 150,000 in 1924. Of the present total 120,000 members are French.

In the foreign contingent the United States stands high with 1,500 members, including six grand crosses, the supreme rank; 21 grand officers, 189 commanders, 550 officers and about 800 knights.

This formidable growth in the last ten years is due principally to the fact that in wartime there is no limit to the crosses that may be conferred for military valor.

Mints 160,000,000 Coins

Philadelphia.—One hundred and sixty million coins were made at the Philadelphia mint in 1924, of which 12,663,198 were foreign coins, the annual report of S. F. Chaffin, assistant superintendent, made public recently showed. This was approximately 40,500,000 pieces less than the output for 1923, when there was an unusual demand for coins of all kinds. The total value of the domestic coinage last year was $105,315,820.

ALBANIA LITTLE KNOWN COUNTRY

People Cling to Language and Customs With Vigorous Tenacity.

Washington, D. C.—Rebel attacks upon Tirana, capital of Albania, afford only one more episode of the kind in Albania's stormy history, says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"The country was created in 1912 to avert a World war," continues the bulletin, "and until the World war broke it was Europe's newest nation though it was peopled by the old race in the Balkans. During the war struggle five countries occupied parts of it; Germany, Austria and Bulgaria controlling northern districts while France and Italy divided the south."

"Not for Albany, Try Europe."

"It was Edward Gibbon who once called Albania 'a country within sight of Italy, which is less known than the interior of America.' More than a century later the tables were turned, when a letter from England for Albania was sent to the United States and returned with the notation 'Not for Albany, try Europe.' Even today when the war's aftermath has carried Americans into many obscure corners of Europe, Albania remains almost unvisited, unknown, and seldom mentioned in the day's news."

"The Albanians are a rugged, primitive mountain people who, it has been said, 'occasionally die from ordinary disease, but more often from differences of opinion.' They are classed along with the French, Portuguese and Walloons as members of the Greco-Latin branch of the Aryan race. Their mountain life has fostered a passionate love of independence and they cling to their language and their customs with a vigorous tenacity, even when groups are transplanted to other lands. The name of the Albanians, meaning 'people of the snow-land,' has been fastened upon them by their neighbors; they call themselves 'Skopetari,' or 'mountaineers. One important tribe, the Catholic Mirdites, bitterly oppose the settlement of any Mohammedans in their vicinity."

"Along the Shkumbia river, the Roman Egnatian way still displays its traces. This stream divides the Christian Albanians into two groups. The Roman Catholic Ghegs live to the north, the Greek Orthodox Toscs live to the south."

"An Albanian, Marco Bozzaris, is referred to in the famous lines, 'At midnight in his guarded tent,' George Castriot, better known to history as Scanderbeg, is their national hero."

"The home town of Scanderbeg, victor in a score or more fierce battles with the Turks, is Kroiia (or Kruga) located on a picturesque precipice of Albania's westernmost mountain chain."

"Tirana is in the west central part of Albania, 20 miles inland from Durazzo, the country's principal port and former capital. Until the outbreak of the World war the only well-paved highway in the country linked these two cities. Not a mile of railroad has yet been built. The government seat was moved inland as a measure of protection against such invasions as that which overtook Fiume."

An Impassing Frontier Town.

"Tirana lacks the aspects of a frontier settlement that one would expect. It has rich bazaars, homes that seem truly palatial in comparison with the primitive village mud houses, and mosques of genuine beauty, facing broad, well-paved streets. The streets are spotted with squares where fountains play and market places where women sell embroideries, brass work and intricately carved pipes for smokers. The city's population is less than 15,000."

"An Albanian family is sufficient unto itself. Except for the trading in a few cities—in Scutari, Korytza and Argyrocastro, besides those already mentioned, there is no semblance of an economic system."

"A woman in a country district works hard, but she is no mere drudge. She makes bread of maize and cooks it over an open hearth fire. The remaining wood ashes she uses in place of soap. She weaves woolen cloth and plait black braid for the garments she makes of it."

"The folklore of these country folk is extensive and remains to be studied. There are tales galore of the 'evil eye,' the casting of spells and witchcraft. Many of these have a crude basis of utility. One observer points to a widespread belief in the Shtriga, or witchwoman, who has the power to decrease her size to that of a fly, crawl through keyholes and crannies, and suck her victim's blood. He wonders whether the malaria-carrying mosquito may not have given rise to this story."

Divorce Decree, 2,000 Years Old, Discovered

Berlin.—Thebes was the original Reno, according to the Zeitschrift für Kulturgeschichte und Biologische Familienkunde, which discusses a document recently discovered in an Egyptian tomb, alleged to be 2,000 years old and the first divorce decree in reported history which is thoroughly authenticated.

This decree is in the Demotic dialect, bearing the signature of a notary named Thut. It does not indicate the ground upon which the divorce was granted. Four witnesses attached their signatures to the reverse side of the papyrus.

Laughter as a Medicine.

If the people only knew the medicinal power of laughter, of good cheer, of the constant expression of joy and gladness, half the physicians would be out of work. Laughter is undoubtedly one of nature's greatest tonics. It brings the disordered faculties and functions into harmony; it lubricates the mental bearings and prevents the friction which monotonous, exacting business engenders. It is a divine gift bestowed upon us as a life preserver, a health promoter, a joy generator, a success maker.—Orison Swett Marden.

Derivation of "township."

Township is a compound word, the suffix "ship" being the Anglo-Saxon "scipe," signifying condition, office, profession. Compare "citizenship," "lordship," "stewardship," etc. Originally the township was the "vill," in which lived in "villain," or "country man," and also meant the community of dwellers itself. "To arouse the township," or "enroll the township," meant the rallying to their lord's banner of the people living in the township. It had, as a geographical division, its own by-laws, made by the "moot," or corporation, and subdivision of a county.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Thundering Herd" which made its bow last night at the Met theater is a vigorous mixture of entertainment and instruction, of history and fiction. It has tremendous dramatic value, yet the thrilling story it narrates, the adventures and incidents it unfolds and the scenes it pictures are based upon facts that are historically true.

The photoplay was adapted from the absorbing novel of the same name by Zane Grey and centers around the glamorous and colorful days of 1876. Mr. Grey knows the west in the early days as do few others and Lucian Hubbard, who scenarized the story and William K. Howard who directed it have been careful to follow the novel down to its minutest details.

Instead of viewing a plain dotted with cities, ranches and cement roads the film shows us the west as it was fifty years ago—a vast wilderness, reigned by great herds of buffalo, over run by wolves, bears and mountain lions and inhabited by fierce, nomadic Indians.

Interwoven with the theme of the story which concerns the long drive that was begun in '76 to the buffalo fields of Wyoming and Montana, is a virile romance, the principals of which are Jack Holt and Lois Wilson. The development of this love affair which is hindered by Miss Wilson's guardian, Noah Beery, and the sufferings and privations of the early settlers provide enough action, drama and suspense for a half a dozen photoplays. The last big Indian attack upon the whites and the exciting stampede of a vast herd of buffalo furnish two of the many dynamic scenes for this epic picture.

As for the cast, besides those featured players already mentioned, it includes Raymond Hatton who also portrays a leading role, Charles Ogle, Lillian Leighon, Eulalie Jensen, Ed. Brady and several hundred minor characters.

WORLD COVERED BY RADIO NET

Powerful Wireless Telegraph Stations Connect Earth's Greatest Cities.

Washington.—Port Jefferson, Carnarvon, Nauen, Great Lakes, Nantes, and Iwaki are unfamiliar names to most people. To radio operators they stand for six of the world's greatest cities; New York, London, Berlin, Chicago, Paris, and Tokio. They are radio gates to these cities, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its headquarters at Washington.

"Because of interference by tall buildings the wireless telegraph stations for the great cities generally are away from the business centers. Sometimes the city's radio gate may be 150 miles away, like the Cabo de Sao Thome station used by Rio de Janeiro. Japan offers another reason for locating a radio gate far from a great city. When Yokohama and Tokyo fell in the cataclysm of September, 1923, all communications ceased. Civilization received the first S. O. S. for help for the stricken district from a little seacoast town, Haranomachi, 100 miles north of Tokyo, outside the quake area. This trans-Pacific wireless station generally goes by the name of Iwaki, because of the province in which it lies.

Rome Station at San Paolo

"Saint Paul is believed to have been executed at a place now called San Paolo, near the old road to Ostia two miles south of Rome. At this sacred place tall radio towers today receive news from all Christendom. Ostia, once proud port of entry for Rome, gives way to San Paolo, radio port of entry for modern Rome.

"Abu Zabel is Cairo's radio gate. Resting on the edge of the desert, its towers look upon nearby Heliopolis, where Plato studied. In no less striking contrast stands the Carnarvon station, on which London depends largely for trans-Atlantic radio communication. Carnarvon, townspeople point out, not their radio station, but grim Carnarvon castle, said to be the most nearly perfect example of a medieval fortress in the British Isles. Carnarvon owes its radio importance to its location in westernmost Wales.

"Nantes is best known for the edict temporarily granting religious freedom to the Huguenots, in France, but radio operators are more familiar with it as a radio station for Paris. Nantes has not displaced Eiffel tower nor the American-built Bordeaux station. Nauen, 20 miles east of Berlin, is the radio port of entry for the German capital. New York may get its wireless messages from any of a number of places. Although communications are constantly coming in at Port Jefferson, L. L. Tuckerton, N. J., near Atlantic City, and Belfast, Maine, are automatically relayed so that they are all actually received in a New York skyscraper.

"Wireless telegraphy throws a net around the earth. The South Orkneys, off the tip of Tierra del Fuego, claim the permanent station nearest the South pole. In January, 1924, the National Geographic society radioed greetings to the Farthest North station, the Bowdoin, Donald B. MacMillan's ship fast in the ice, and deep in the gloom of Arctic night, at Refuge Harbor near Etah, Greenland.

Most Northerly Station.

"Credit for the most northerly permanent station must go to Norway for Kavorasand, which is north of Hammerfest, at the tip top of the Scandinavian peninsula. The lonely Valgach island post maintained by the Soviet government is nearly as far north.

"It is not regarded as wise to cross the Sahara desert in midsummer. The Sahara is more unconquerable than the sea, but radio now has done for the sea of sand what it did for the ocean. Last summer an American newspaper man went overland from Algiers to the Niger. Hazardous though the journey was this traveler was able to communicate with his wife in the United States nearly every three days through the oasis radio-telegraph stations established by the French.

"Col. Claude H. Birdseye and his party two years ago were swallowed up for weeks in the depths of the Colorado river canyons. While their fate was debated in the newspapers the party at the bottom of the canyon heard through their radio set the sad news of President Harding's death in San Francisco.

"Could the great explorers come back they would find the scenes of their exploits decorated with wireless towers. Darien, where Balboa discovered the Pacific ocean, has a wireless station. Cebu, the island on which Magellan was killed, now supports one. So does San Salvador where Christopher Columbus landed. Magellan, going through the Straits, today might radio a waiting world at one end, 'Am entering Straits,' and from a station at the other end report 'Very windy passage. Will use Panama canal next time.'

Twins Reunited

Augusta, Wis.—Still hale and hearty and keeping abreast of the times Mrs. Minnie Ford and Mrs. Margaret Tebo, twin sisters, eighty-four, recently celebrated their birthday. Their husbands dead and their children presiding over homes of their own, the twins are passing their last years together at Mrs. Tebo's home in Augusta.

Matchmaking by Aunt Tilda

By H. IRVING KING

(Copyright.)

REGINALD BROWN had been "keeping company" with Matilda Hawkins for two years now. They perfectly understood that they loved each other and were ultimately to be married; though the formal question on Reginald's part and the formal assent on Matilda's had never been spoken. The fact was that Reggie had not spoken because he had never, in all those two years, been in such a financial condition that he felt himself justified in speaking.

He hardly expected that he would ever be able to give Matilda—as he called her—such a luxurious home as that which she now enjoyed in the house of her great aunt, an old woman of eighty, for whom his adored one had been named—a jolly old lady who read romantic novels continuously and was never tired of talking about marriage, though she had never been married herself.

Reggie had been "bred to the law," but had never been able to establish himself in his profession. He was alone in the world and making heavy weather of it in his attempts to reach the haven of a modest competence. Reggie was desperate. He thought of going to Matilda and telling her just how matters stood, of saying to her: "I am a failure—and shall always be one. It's no use. I love you too well to allow you to share my broken fortunes, or to cast myself as a burden upon your wealth. You would despise me if I did, and justly so."

That was what he felt he ought to do; but, somehow, he could not bring himself to do it. Perhaps matters might mend with him. He had several irons in the fire; who could tell what might happen? And then he began to dream dreams of future opulence. Matilda was at the end of all these dreams naturally. That was what he wanted his dreams to come true for—that he might marry Matilda.

Had Matilda known how affairs stood with Reggie she would have rushed to him, thrown herself and her wealth at his feet and commanded him to take it and her. But she didn't know, and therefore she was pained. Having no mother to confide in she confided in Aunt Tilda. The old lady was delighted to be made the confidant in a love affair. "Oh, you dear child," cried the old lady, "oh, you delightful girl. It's just like something I was reading the other day in 'Ralph Riggstone, or the Hunted Heart.' A charming book—I'll lend it to you. Reggie is timid; that's all. Make him jealous, child. That'll bring him to time. There is Percy Deighton. He's in love with you, I know, he is. Pretend to encourage him—and let Reggie see it. He'll speak then."

"But would that be right?" murmured Matilda, "to encourage the attentions of a man whom I did not intend to marry?"

"Oh, all's fair in love and war," laughed the old woman.

"But what makes you think that Mr. Deighton is in love with me?" objected Matilda; "he has never shown any—er—symptoms."

"Oh, I know, I can tell," chuckled Aunt Tilda; "you go ahead and do as I say if you want your Reggie."

Matilda went away in deep thought. She did not approve of her aunt's plan, but then she did want Reggie, and, unable to think of any other scheme, resolved to try the one suggested.

Now it so happened that Aunt Tilda's novel reading had led her astray. Mr. Deighton was not in love with Matilda at all. He was a man of forty-five, a widower and a prosperous lawyer who managed Aunt Tilda's business affairs for her. In this capacity, and that of a family friend, he was often at the Lawton home and had taken a fatherly interest in Matilda, whose girlish beauty he admired and whose intelligent conversation he much enjoyed. That was all. He was therefore greatly surprised and not a little shocked and annoyed when he realized that Matilda was "setting her cap at him."

"You did very well, very well indeed," said Aunt Tilda after the second of these, to Deighton, embarrassing meetings. "Now we must get Reggie and Deighton here together and you do as well as you did today and we'll bring Reggie to book in no time."

"Auntie, I can't and won't go on with this," said Matilda. "What will Mr. Deighton think of me?"

"Oh, I'll fix Deighton all right," returned the old lady.

The next time Deighton called Aunt Tilda took him aside and told him the whole story, begging him to play his part in her little comedy.

"Really," said the lawyer, "I fear I am too poor an actor to do as you request. I know Brown of course. He's a bright lad, but never has seemed to quite catch on. Perhaps all he wants is a chance. I'll see what I can do." The result was that two days later Reggie came rushing to Matilda, waving his hat and crying out: "Hurrah! We can be married now, Matilda. I've got a job as office manager for old Deighton at a good, fat salary—and if I make good, as I will, he says he will take me into partnership later."

"Is this a proposal?" asked Matilda. "It is, old gal," replied Reggie. "When shall it be?"

"There," said Aunt Tilda that night to her niece, "I told you if you followed my advice Reggie would propose."

who is a sensational outfielder and will make a great ball player when he develops hitting ability.

A large crowd of rooters will follow the team to Washington Sunday to cheer them on to victory and you are invited to go along and help swell the crowd.

On the following Sunday the Circleville team will play the opening game on their home lot and the lodge is making preparations for a big time for the opening game. Tickets for this game are now on sale by lodge members and they are selling fast.

One thousand spectators is the smallest figure that anybody will predict for this game and many confidently expect the crowd to exceed this figure by many hundreds.

The support that the lodge receives at this game will go a long way toward making or marring the baseball season, and if you feel that you deserve high class ball this season, buy a few tickets to the opening game and then be on the field to root.

Radiator Cover

The bureau of mines says that the covering of a radiator with linen cloth or with a board will not reduce the heat in a room. On the contrary it throws the heat out into the room where it is more effective than if allowed to ascend directly to the ceiling.

Porcupines Annoy Railroad

The government's Alaska railroad has to fight porcupines. Rubber in any form is to the porcupine what waste paper and rubbish are to the American goat, popular for lunching purposes, and the railroad officials have ordered rubber hose in pumping stations and all rubber fixtures to be hung on high poles.

Crocodiles' Advantages

Crocodiles, particularly those of the Egyptian Nile, are mighty hunters, although they exercise great judgment in choosing their victims. They are extraordinarily tough and tenacious of life, and are so shaped and defended by their strong skins that other animals have much difficulty in combating them.

If you have, you'll know what we mean when we say that "The Thundering Herd" belongs in the same class.

The story by Zane Grey has the same historical importance.

The production is of the same gigantic dimensions.

The result is just as thrillingly entertaining.

Picture the setting—the Western wilderness of 1876.

Enormous herds of buffalo running wild across the plains.

The rush of pioneers to the new fields of fortune. The wanton slaughter of the buffalo by the hide-hunters, inciting the Indians to new and savage uprisings.

Picture Zane Grey's greatest romance against that thrilling background!

With a company of 1,000 recreating the amazing scenes and 2,000 maddened buffalo in a REAL stampede.

GOVERNOR DONEHEY INAUGURATED

ABSENCE OF POMP OR SPLENDOR WAS FEATURE OF CEREMONIES

Others Inducted Into Office Were:
Auditor of State, Jos. T. Tracy;
Secretary of State, Thad H. Brown; State Treasurer, Harry S. Day and Attorney General C. C. Crabbe--Reception.

Governor A. Vic Donahey was inaugurated at noon Monday for a second term as chief executive of the state of Ohio and at the same time other state officials were inducted into office.

For the most part the scene was familiar to the participants, all but one of them having taken part in a similar affair two years ago.

Charles H. Lewis, lieutenant governor, being the only newcomer in the official family. The others: Joseph T. Tracy, state auditor; Harry S. Day, state treasurer; Thad H. Brown, secretary of state, and C. C. Crabbe, attorney general, having each served one term.

In accordance with the wishes of Governor Donahey, the inaugural ceremonies were without pomp or show. The whole thing had been planned with business-like simplicity and efficiency that was but a minor interruption of the day's work for all those who had any part in the proceedings.

The inauguration took place at noon before a joint session of the senate and house of representatives in the hall of the capitol, rather in their own offices.

Lieutenant Governor Bloom presided over the joint session and was assisted by Harry D. Silver, speaker of the house and Rev. E. S. Matheny, senate chaplain.

The procession started when the members of the supreme court were escorted to the house. After the judges had been seated, the governor's party entered from the lounge room of the house. Leading the procession was Governor Donahey, flanked on his right by Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson, the lieutenant governor elect, the secretary of state, the attorney general, the state treasurer and the state auditor.

When the party had aligned itself in front of the rostrum, the oaths of office were administered by justices of the supreme court. Chief Justice C. T. Marshall swore in Governor Donahey; Justice J. E. Robinson, Attorney General Crabbe; Justice E. S. Mathias, Secretary of State Brown; Justice T. A. Jones, Auditor Tracy, and Justice Robert H. Day, State Treasurer Harry S. Day.

Governor Donahey took the oath last and immediately launched into the delivery of his inaugural address which was broadcast by the Erner-Hopkins company, of Columbus.

After reading his message, Governor Donahey, accompanied by his military aides, returned to the state executive offices. At two o'clock an informal reception was conducted by Governor Donahey in the rotunda of the State Capitol. Claude Meeker was chairman of a committee of Columbus business and professional men who arranged for the reception.

The inaugural ceremonies in the hall of the house were witnessed by state officials and guests from the floor of the house and the first two rows of the house gallery were reserved for families of state officials.

Coincident with the inauguration of Governor Donahey, the state's Republican electors met and cast the vote of the state for President Coolidge. Former Justice of the supreme court of Ohio, was chosen president; J. W. Huffman, secretary, and Walter Rogers sergeant-at-arms.

J. W. Myers of Butler county, oldest member was named to be messenger to carry the official ballot to Washington.

EAGLES' SHOW INDOOR CIRCUS BIG SUCCESS

Ten Day Carnival Closed Saturday Night With Many Shekels Added to Aerie's Exchequer.

The circus put on by the Milton Holland Amusement company at Memorial hall for ten days closed Saturday evening at twelve o'clock.

The company put on the show under a contract made with the committee of the Eagles' aerie, and it was given in order to raise enough money to wipe out a deficit in the athletic division and also to provide a little nest egg for the future. The contract was signed by individuals, and not by the lodge, as had been reported.

The entertainment was a clean, musical treat. The members of the company treated everybody civilly, and were as nice a bunch of performers as ever came to this city, and even tho they get some of our hoarded shekels we had a run for our money, and no bad taste was left in our mouths.

The committee's contract was on a fifty-fifty basis, as the aerie gets one-half of the receipts.

Mr. Graham was a carpenter by occupation and this city has been his home for the major portion of his life. He is a veteran of the Civil war, having served in Company A, 114th O. V. I. Among the out of town guests at the celebration was H. E. Graham of Toledo.

Potoskey, Mich.--Nature's dentistry on a deer is reported by Albean Olson, a hunter, who has displayed the lower jaw of a deer he shot while hunting in the upper peninsula this fall. McCoy Knocks Out Fellow Prisoner; Restores Memory

Los Angeles, Cal.--The amazing story of how Kid McCoy, held in jail here for the murder of Theresa Mora, antique dealer, struck a fellow prisoner and restored his memory, was told here when Morris Lebowitz, amnesia victim, identified himself as a wealthy Baltimore insurance broker after recovering from McCoy's punch. The former pugilist was boxing in a cell with Ed Montijo, condemned murderer, when Montijo ducked a vicious blow which struck another prisoner, booked as "Allen Azen," on the right temple.

"Azen" went down for a long count and when revived his memory was restored and he identified himself as the Baltimore broker, missing since last March, jail officials said.

N. & W. TRAIN IS WRECKED AT ASHVILLE

Nine Cars of Merchandise Were Derailed -- Tracks Were Strwn With Wreckage.

Southbound Norfolk & Western thru freight train, known as No. 94, was wrecked at Dix, a siding north of Ashville Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock. Nine cars of merchandise were derailed, seven of which were so badly wrecked that they had to be destroyed. The cars were refrigerators and contained cured meats, potatoes and merchandise of various kinds.

The wreck was caused by a draw bar of one of the cars pulling out which caused the cars to pile up in one of the worst wrecks that had occurred on the road for nearly a year. Both tracks were strewn with wreckage and all traffic was blocked at this point until nearly 1 o'clock this morning.

Wrecking trains from the Baltimore & Ohio road at Chillicothe and Norfolk and Western road at Columbus assisted in clearing the wreck.

The road is doing an unusually heavy freight business at present. Eighty trains passed over the road in twenty-four hours.

Fish Are Shoveled From River During Smelt Run

Kelso, Wash.--Smelt started running into the Cowlitz river from the Columbia recently. Catching these miniature fish is now the event of the winter, farmers shoveling them up by the scoopful, filling barrels and boxes; women using lace curtain nets at the end of portiere poles; boys and girls with father's auto cover for a seine and the professional fisher with his linen thread nets.

These fish, about seven to nine inches long, run in schools, often filling the river from bank to bank. They are en route upstream to spawn after which the smelt return to the ocean and, like the fur seal, spend a long period far from human eyes.

The food value of the smelt is what makes it so attractive, being canned in glass jars, pickled in spices, salted and dried.

H. F. BROWN INSTANTLY KILLED WHEN TRACTION CAR HIT AUTO

Sideswiped by Another Machine and Thrown on Track in Front of Speeding Train--Represented Fayette County in the Ohio Legislature for Four Years--Well Known in This County.

Harrison F. Brown, aged 51, of 223 South Monroe avenue Columbus, prominent business man and a former member of the house of representatives of the Ohio general assembly from Fayette county, was instantly killed at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening in Columbus when the automobile in which he was returning home from Washington C. H. was sideswiped by another machine and was knocked over on the Indianapolis, Columbus and Eastern tracks in the path of a speeding traction car. The Hudson machine in which Mr. Brown was riding was a total wreck.

Harry Moore, of 397 Dana avenue, Columbus, the driver of the other car, received severe lacerations of the head and body, but was able to go to his home after receiving medical attendance.

Mr. Moore lost control of his machine when he neared the crossing and was blinded by the glaring lights of the traction car. Mr. Brown was driving toward the city, while the car of Mr. Moore was going in the opposite direction. The Moore car sideswiped the Brown machine, sending it careening in front of the traction car. The automobile was struck with such force that it was dragged fully a hundred feet before the crew could stop the car.

Mr. Brown was returning home from a public sale at the farm of his wife, near Washington C. H. He was a salesman for the McCrkey Cash Register company, of Alliance. He was an Elk, a Thirty-second degree Mason and a Shriner. He served in the Ohio legislature from 1919 to 1923. He was well known in this county and was the organizer of the Fayette County Supply company at Washington C. H.

The deceased was a first cousin of Prosecuting Attorney Meeker Terwilliger. Mrs. W. S. Gearhart, Clark K. Hunsicker, Trustin P. Brown and B. F. Yates, of this city. He leaves his wife, who was before her marriage, Miss Florence Seltzer, of Fayette county; two sons, William, aged 15, and David, aged five years, and one daughter, Mary, aged 18.

Of his immediate family, one sister Mrs. John Morris, of Washington C. H., is living. He was a son of Wesley and Elizabeth Harrison Brown, late of Fayette county.

A short service will be held at the late home, 233 South Monroe avenue, Columbus, Wednesday morning at ten o'clock Standard Central time. Rev. W. D. Cherrington will officiate.

The full funeral services will be held at the Grace M. E. church at Washington C. H., Wednesday at one o'clock Standard Central time. Rev. Cherrington will officiate. The interment will be in the cemetery at Bloomington.

The deceased was a direct descendant of three presidents; Presidents William Henry Harrison, Benjamin Harrison and James K. Polk. Mr. Brown's mother was Elizabeth Harrison, who was a direct descendant of the two Harrisons. His father was a direct descendant of President James K. Polk's mother, James Knox.

KELLOGG TO SUCCEED C. E. HUGHES

As Secretary of State, C. B. Warren Appointed Attorney General to Succed Harlan F. Stone

Washington, D. C., (United Press) Charles E. Hughes will retire as secretary of state the fourth of March, next, and Frank B. Kellogg, now ambassador to Great Britain, will succeed him. An official announcement to this effect was made at the White House Saturday night and created a genuine sensation. While there have been frequent rumors lately that Mr. Hughes was considering retiring to private life upon completion of four years in office they have been generally denied and the capital was wholly unprepared for such an epochal change in the cabinet.

Announcement was also made late Saturday by President Coolidge that he had selected former Ambassador Warren to succeed Attorney General Harlan F. Stone, who resigned his cabinet position to accept appointment as associate justice of the United States supreme court. Mr. Stone, whose appointment is yet to be confirmed by the senate, will take the place vacated by Justice Joseph McKenna.

WILL WED MILLIONAIRE

Mr. and Mrs. George Hunter Smith of Chillicothe and New York City, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Judith Marcia, to Philip Morgan Plant, son of Mrs. William Hayward, of New York City. The date of the marriage has not been set. For several seasons Miss Smith has been prominent in New York society and is one of its most popular members. Mr. Plant is one of New York City's wealthiest young men by reason of being heir to the twenty million dollar estate left by Commodore Morton Plant late owner of steamship lines known as the Plant system. He was also owner of a large line of hotels in Florida. The father of Miss Smith is the owner of land in this county situated near South Bloomfield.

Discriminating Waves

Senator Marconi, analyzing his success in transmitting the human voice from England to Australia, makes a very interesting statement. He says that waves sent from England in the morning travel to Australia by way of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, a distance of 22,000 kilometers. Those sent out in the afternoon go by way of Europe and Asia, a distance of 17,000 kilometers. Here is a puzzle indeed for the scientists to explain. —From Collier's.

Many Cows in Cities

We have all come to believe that the cows are all in the country and that they have no city cousins, in spite of the fact that any day Washingtonians can see one of the finest herds of Holsteins in the world grazing in the Soldiers' Home pastures, says the Washington Star. As a matter of fact, there are 1,200,000 "city" cows in the United States, as against 25,556,000 "country" cows, according to a survey by the United States Department of Agriculture. The combined production of the "city" cows and the "country" cows in the United States last year was 110,000,000,000 pounds of whole milk, or an average production a cow of 4,260 pounds. The effect of city life on the producing capacity of a cow is not shown.

Federal Grades of Big Benefit

Standardization of Farm Products Attaining National Importance.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Standardization of farm products is rapidly attaining national and international importance, declares the United States Department of Agriculture. Federal grades are now available for 30 kinds of fruits and vegetables, one or more of which grades have been adopted by 25 states for use in interstate commerce.

Value of Grades.

The department's standardization program was started in 1915 with the establishment of a telegraphic market news service covering most of the leading consuming markets in the country. Federal grades were prepared for Bermuda onions and potatoes, use of the latter being made compulsory by the food administration. The value of the potato grades was found to be such that with the termination of the food administration the trade continued the voluntary use of the grades, and it is estimated that at least 80 per cent of the total shipments of potatoes in the United States are now quoted on the basis of the federal grades.

Further stimulus was given the standardization program when the United States food products inspection service was started in 1917. This service provided for federal inspection of shipments at receiving points when such inspection should be requested by any of the persons interested in the shipments. Grading laws that had been long dormant were brought out and shaken to life. By 1921 federal grades had been recommended for 13 different fruits and vegetables, and had been widely adopted by the states.

Service Extended.

The following year the inspection service was extended to shipping points, and a tremendous demand developed for additional standards for fruits and vegetables. The grades now cover 30 commodities and the end is not yet, say department officials in charge of the work. Growers of artichokes, romaine, raspberries, rutabagas, escarolles, garlic and other commodities are requesting federal grades for their products. The grades are also now being recognized abroad as evidenced by the trade preference given American products that have been officially inspected and for which inspection certificates as to quality and condition have been issued.

The recent accession of interest in standard grades on the part of eastern products is pointed out as a notable development in the standardization program. In Virginia, for example, 500 apple growers this year have organized standardization rings and are collectively advertising their brand in connection with the federal grades. The Georgia peach crop this year for the first time was packed on the United States grades, approximately 8,000 cars being inspected and certified at shipping point on this basis.

Two-Year-Old Ayrshire Has High Year's Record

B. M.'s Canary Bell, a two-year-old Ayrshire owned by the Kansas State Agricultural college, has just completed a year's record of 9,315 pounds of milk containing 329.73 pounds of butterfat. She is the fifth daughter of the senior herd sire, Bell's Melrose, to complete a year's test, thus awarding to this remarkable sire the honor of five daughters that, as two-year-olds, average 11,007 pounds of milk and 411.24 pounds of butterfat. B. M.'s Canary Bell is a daughter of Melrose Canary Bell II, former world's record two-year-old, and a granddaughter of the famous old Canary Bell that made 744 pounds of butterfat in a year.

The college Ayrshire herd is nationally known for its high-producing cows, having developed more class leaders and world record cows than any other institutional Ayrshire herd in America. Two world record cows and three French cup winners have been developed here. Of the 16 Kansas class records for 300 and 365 days, ten are held by K. S. A. C. Ayrshires. There are 12 Ayrshires in the college herd at present that during three years averaged 12,139 pounds of milk and 448 pounds of butterfat. A four-year-old Ayrshire produced 1,862 pounds of milk and 68.73 pounds of butterfat during September.

Make Hens Exercise

Feed the grain in a deep litter on the floor and make the hens exercise for it. The mash may be fed either wet or dry, and should be so regulated that the fowls will get about equal parts of mash and of the scratch grains. It is necessary to give the fowls plenty to eat to get good results, but the birds should always be eager for each feed. In cold weather feed about one-third of the scratch grains in the morning and two-thirds at night. In this way the hens are forced to exercise more than if they receive all the grain they desire at the morning feed.

One's Identity.

There is, in sanest hours, a consciousness, a thought that rises, independent, lifted out of all else, calm, like the stars, shining eternal. This is the thought of identity—yours for you, whoever you are, as mine for me. —Walt Whitman.

National Manufacturers' Association
Makes Survey of Vote in Last Election.

New York.—The National Association of Manufacturers which took a leading part in the "get out the vote" movement preceding the recent election has just completed a survey of the vote. It shows that 19 states cast a smaller vote this year than in 1920.

Indiana and Kansas occupy positions of honor in the table made public by the association, showing the vote cast by states, the figures based on unofficial and incomplete returns. In Indiana, it would appear, 83 per cent of the potential vote came out, and in Kansas 80 per cent. New York shows 60 per cent of the potential vote effective, as compared with 56.7 per cent four years ago.

The lowest percentage is recorded for South Carolina. Only 8 per cent of its electors went to the polls.

Crooked English Roads Add to Auto Deaths

London.—Motorcars in England have not yet become so common that they kill as many people each year as does influenza, which statistics show to be the case nowadays in America, but the toll of life on the highways is becoming a matter of concern over here, too.

In the last 12 months road accidents increased in number by 26 per cent over the previous year. Sir Henry P. Maybury, director general of roads in the ministry of transport, told a recent meeting of motor manufacturers that he has been impressed with the growing tendency to increased speeds by all manner of vehicles.

High-speed driving is more dangerous in England than in almost any other country with good roads for the country highways seldom keep to a straight line for any considerable distance. It is doubtful if they ever will, unless automobiles become considerably more numerous and new roads are demanded. One of the charms of England is her winding narrow roads, lined with hedges, and few want to see them given up merely for the sake of getting from place to place in less time.

Gather Paintings by Morse, Famous Inventor

Philadelphia.—It is not generally remembered today that Samuel F. B. Morse, founder of the American system of the magnetic telegraph, was a portrait painter, in his early days, of considerable and deserved reputation. In his generation he was regarded, with Gilbert C. Stuart and Thomas Sully, as a great artist. In later life his inventions in the electric field were of such magnitude that he is associated largely as an inventor in the public mind.

The Art alliance of Philadelphia has decided to hold an exhibition of the portraits painted by Morse, and this will be the first public effort to bring before the American public his artistic achievements. To this end the alliance is preparing a catalogue of Morse's portraits and endeavoring to make the list complete. It feels there may be a number of his pictures in the country of which it has as yet no record.

The exhibition probably will be held in Philadelphia as soon as the Morse portraits can be located and assembled.

Woolen Stockings Half Size Larger Than Feet

Woolen stockings, agree style authorities and doctors, have come to stay—at least so long as we will wear low-cut shoes and short skirts through the cold of winter. And so, if you are a sensible woman, as well as a well-dressed one, says the Kansas City Star, you are sure to want some wool stockings to wear with your sports clothes and walking togs in the winter time.

In buying wool stockings, one of the most important things to remember is to get them large enough—a half size larger than the feet, at least. It is true that any stocking will wear better if it is slightly longer than the foot, but the fact is particularly true as regards wool stockings, because of their extraordinary shrinking properties. This difficulty may be overcome by care in laundering as well as by allowing for shrinkage when you buy. Never use anything but soft water in washing wool stockings, since soft water requires less soap to make a lather; and the less soap you use, the better, since soap is likely to cause felting—the direct cause of shrinking in woolsens. It will pay you to buy the wooden forms on which to dry your wool stockings, too, if you wear them a great deal. On these, the stocking feet will stretch back to the proper size.

Now, many women object to wool stockings on the grounds that they are "scratchy." If you have discovered this fault with them you will probably find a solution in the silk and wool stockings, which are not only more attractive, having less tendency to "thicken" the ankles; but which are softer and less harsh against the skin. Silk and wool stockings are easier to launder, too, than are all-wool stockings. They should, however, be washed only in lukewarm water and pure soap, and should be carefully pulled and patted into shape as they dry.

The disadvantage of both wool and silk and wool stockings lies in the tendency to keep them on indoors. After having worn them out of doors. It is wise always to change them for lightweight silk or cotton stockings, when in a warm place, else the feet will become tender and sensitive.

Plaid Taffeta Tunics in Ensemble Costumes

Tunics of plaid taffeta are an integral part of the ensemble costumes designed for school girls and their sisters of sub-debutante age. Dance frocks of plaid chiffon in lovely pastel tones, while the sports frock of flannel and the tailored suit of a plaid material combined with plaid are recognized as outstanding features of the modes of this season. One of the prettiest models is a dark blue flannel which has a three-quarter length tunic bound with red and blue plaid and worn over a skirt of plaid. The fashion of lining the coat with plaid, or of using one of the new woolsens which are plain on one side and plaid on the other for the coat is a distinctive note of the new modes and one which has achieved a decided vogue.

Fur Collars Are Ribbon Tied

The little dress was in satin, quite straight, with long tight sleeves, and, for all trimming, a narrow band in front set with buttons, with a jabot of the same material on each side. The three-quarter length coat was in silk broche with a shaped flounce at the bottom bordered with a narrow band of fur. A small fur collar separate from the dress, tied with ribbons in front, was a pretty detail. Similar collars in fur were frequently seen on other models.

Requirements for Culture

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, outlined five traits that distinguish a man of culture. They are, in condensed version: Correct use of the mother tongue; refined and gentle manners; sound standards of appreciation of beauty; power and habit of reflection and efficiency or the power to do. To these requirements for the cultured man, an European woman educator has added, to make the "complete woman," the following: Cultivation of a lively imagination, untiring energy and wholehearted devotion to an ideal, idea or a person.

Plant Trees to Save Birds

Three hundred coconut palms are to be shipped immediately to Bird Key, one of the Tortugas islands off the southwest coast of Florida, to protect the noddy tern from extinction, according to Dr. Paul Bartsch of the Smithsonian institution. This tiny island is the only place under the American flag where this species of gull-like birds breed. Several years ago a tropical hurricane swept across the island and destroyed the trees in which they used to nest. Now it is planned to grow new trees to provide apartments for these rare terns.

Jewelry From Hard Coal

Polished hard coal as a substitute for jet in the production of rings, necklaces, watch fobs, ornamental hat trimmings and similar articles, is being experimented with by a German inventor. Selected hard coal is used and after the substance is cut as near to the required dimensions as possible, it is finished off with fine files and then polished. Monogram rings inscribed with initials inlaid in white enamel present a smart appearance, and few are said to be able to guess the nature of the substitute.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

AMUSEMENTS

Pola Negri's new Paramount starring picture, "Lily of the Dust" is a production with an ending which will surprise even the keenest students of drama because it is so totally unexpected. Produced by Dimitri Buchowetzki, "Lily of the Dust" due at the Met theater on Monday presents Ben Lyon, Noah Beery and Raymond Griffith at the head of the supporting cast.

Noah Beery as "Mertzbach," Ben Lyon as "Prell" and Raymond Griffith as "Dehnecke" are superbly cast in support of Miss Negri.

Insects Preserved in Amber.

In a collection of red amber presented to the British museum, Prof. T. D. Cockerell has recognized an astonishing variety of insect forms, and has described not less than 31 new species, of which five are types of new genera. Most of them were found in a single block little larger than a man's fist, which was cut into half-inch slices, in every one of which the insects are densely crowded. The amber is from Miocene clay beds of Burma, though perhaps washed from still older deposits, and nearly every large order of insects is represented, the family of ants being a notable exception.

NEW MONUMENTS SET ASIDE BY U. S.

Five Historic Spots Now Open to Public.

Washington.—For 38 years Liberty looking down on New York harbor must have blushed under the reverent gaze of millions of immigrants. Only in October, 1924, did she come into her own, officially—she was made a national monument by an executive order of President Coolidge. The order reads that Fort Wood, N. Y., shall be made a national monument. Fort Wood is no more and no less than the Statue of Liberty enlightening the world.

In the same order that made the Statue of Liberty what the American people thought she was, four other military reservations or parts of them were set aside as national monuments open to the public. One of these, Fort Marion at St. Augustine, Fla., is well known. The others, Castle Pinckney, Charleston Harbor, S. C.; Fort Pulaski, near Savannah, Ga., and Fort Matanzas, near St. Augustine, are less well known.

What They Commemorate.

"A massacre which probably was the most terrible committed on American soil, the only intact example of a medieval fort in North America, the site where rifled guns first spelled the doom of parapets, the scene of the Civil war's first shot and the first successful submarine attack, and the modern world's equivalent of the Colossus of Rhodes—these are the incidents memorialized by the five new national monuments," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its headquarters in Washington.

"History knits together the stories of Fort Marion and Fort Matanzas, the latter 15 miles to the south. Don Pedro Menendez, the 'adelantado' or governor of Florida, founded St. Augustine in 1565 as a base from which to attack the Huguenot colony at Fort Caroline, 50 miles north. Spain claimed the Huguenots trespassed on their territory. But the Huguenots, French Protestants, who had come for religious freedom like the Pilgrims were to come 65 years later, decided to surprise the Spanish.

"Their fleet swooped down on St. Augustine but a Florida hurricane drove the French vessels on the beach some miles south, wrecking every vessel. After a forced march Menendez captured Fort Caroline. All the defenders were killed and the women and children were carried away. Returning to St. Augustine he rushed south to meet the shipwrecked French. They surrendered unconditionally.

"Binding the arms of his prisoners Menendez started them in parties toward St. Augustine. Near the site of the new national monument, Fort Matanzas, he placed a firing squad. Florida's white sand was stained with the blood of 200 French that day. Matanzas in Spanish means 'massacre.'

"Under the protection of the walls of Fort Marion, first known as San Juan de Pinos and later as St. Mark, the Spanish introduced into America limes, lemons, citrons and China and Seville oranges.

"Discovery of coquina, a soft shell and coral stone, near St. Augustine about 1570, led to the replacement of the wooden structure with the material a visitor sees today. Old Fort Matanzas is coquina also. Thirty million dollars is the reported cost of Fort Marion. When King Ferdinand IV heard this he exclaimed: 'What! is this fort built of silver dollars?'

"Today the War department keeps both forts in repair.

A Gallant Defense.

"Fort Pulaski is located on the sea end of a sand spit dividing the mouth of the Savannah river. Built on the site of Revolutionary Fort Greene, which was destroyed by a hurricane, Fort Pulaski was taken over by Southern troops at the beginning of the Civil war. Union troops attacking Savannah brought up some of the first rifle cannon ever made and demanded the fort's surrender. The Confederate commander replied: 'I have been sent here to fight, not surrender.' Despite a gallant defense the rifled cannon pounded out a military lesson that scrapped most of the world's forts.

"Fort Moultrie, that beat off a British fleet in 1776, and Fort Sumter, the Civil war's Serajevo, are twin guards to Charleston harbor. These two forts are still in active use so Castle Pinckney, an unused fort on Shutes Folly island, has been named a national monument for Charleston harbor. It is opposite the point where batteries first poured shot into Sumter. Union forces used Castle Pinckney in their final attack on Charleston. It was in this harbor that the first submarine, run by steam, torpedoed a ship during the Civil war, but went to the bottom with its victim. Castle Pinckney also saw one of the first attacks of an armored fleet on forts.

"Bedloe's island provides the footstool for Liberty. It has had a more peaceful history. France's gift of 1876 on the centenary of independence raised this 2½-acre oyster island of New Amsterdam to eternal fame. The Colossus of Rhodes in Asia Minor was one of the seven wonders of the world. Yet Liberty Enlightening the World rises to 131 feet above her pedestal, 26 feet higher than the reported height of the fallen wonder of the Near East. The American people immediately accepted Liberty with fervor and enshrined her as First Lady of American History."

FORD AUTOS ASSEMBLED ON BROADWAY

Surprising How Quickly the Work is Completed—Two Million Cars and Trucks.

New York, N. Y., Jan. 3.—The Auto show season, which formally opened here Friday, brought a new attraction to Broadway—a Ford final assembly line, in full action, producing new Ford cars at the rate of one every few minutes from 10 o'clock in the morning until 11 o'clock at night.

The famous old thoroughfare never saw anything like this before.

The curious began to wonder what was going on early in the week when cars were removed from the attractive and spacious show room of the New York City branch of the Ford Motor company on Broadway at Fifty-Fourth street. They wondered still more a day or so later when bright new fixtures and conveyor line began to take form in the room and then Friday morning curiosity gave way to amazement—Ford was building cars on Broadway. Throngs began to gather outside the windows, inside along the line of operation to see and to marvel. They have been coming every day since in constantly increasing numbers.

In what might be termed a parlor, with conveyor line, fixtures and tools resplendent in nicker finish significant of the silver jubilee year of the industry, the Ford Motor company is showing by actual assembly how high quality parts, produced by precision methods, can be quickly and easily assembled into completed cars and so make quantity production possible.

Visitors, and they are coming by the thousands, marvel at the simplicity of it all as they pass along around the sixty-foot conveyor line where workmen in white uniforms assemble Ford cars almost before anyone realizes what is really happening.

From stocks of component parts, arranged in truck bins on the floor, the workmen begin the process of assembling the car with the fabrication of the frames and rear axles.

As these are completed they go to the final assembly line and building of the car starts on the conveyor, parts being added as it moves along. From an overhead hoist the motor is swung into place and a little further on the body is lowered and quickly bolted to the frame.

Four cars are in process of assembly on this conveyor all the time and it is surprising how quickly they are completed. As each car nears the end of the line the motor is started and it is driven off under its own power, ready for delivery to the customer.

It is an interesting and educational presentation of what is transpiring for eight hours every day through the United States along final Assembly lines in the thirty-two branches of the company which have a production capacity of 2,000,000 Ford cars and trucks annually.

Never Sorry That He Stuck to Dependents

Nearly every one of us is helping to take care of those unable to take care of themselves. We generally consider it a thankless task of which we would gladly see the end. But once we begin to help, the objects of our benevolence have a way of hanging on forever.

Here once more I had been obliged at an early age to work out a guiding principle. If I go on like this, I had often said to myself, I shall have nothing saved. Later I had to express it in terms that applied to old age and the future of my family. At times it looked like a duty to abandon dependents now, so that I myself might be secured in the years to come.

But here I reasoned that I could never be a loser from standing by those who had a claim on me. It could not be that having done what I could for them I should be left with nothing for myself. I was not generous at heart; I was doing what I did only because there was no one else to undertake it; but even so, it seemed to me the Giver of All Things would not desert a man who was humbly trying to be a giver in his turn.

And He never did. As the first of each month came around, I always had money, even at the worst of times, to pay my bills and meet my obligations of affection. There was often no more; but there was that; and by the time the first of the next month came round the empty purse filled up again. Many a time I was reminded, and I am reminded still, of the barrel of meal and the cruse of oil of the widow of Sarepta. "And the barrel of meal wasted not, neither did the cruse of oil fail, according to the word of the Lord."—Basil King, in Hearst's International.

PERMANENT WORLD PEACE, CHIEF AIM

With three Americans holding the highest honors, the International War Veterans' association is ready this year to launch a big program to make itself felt in all international movements seeking permanent world peace.

Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, is president; Roy Hoffman of Oklahoma, is American vice president, and Mrs. Lowell F. Hobart is first women's organizer of the association auxiliary. Including the newly armed auxiliary, the Fidac, as it is called, embraces a membership of 15,000,000 ex-service men and women of the world, and what they do or say this year will have reactions in all the capitals of the civilized world.

The first achievement of record is the announcement by the League of Nations that a section has been reserved for ex-service men. While not permitted to vote in the league's councils this section will be consulted in veteran questions and on matters of world peace. What it actually means is that next June when the disarmament conference is held at Geneva, Switzerland, the World war veterans will be represented and their influence felt.

Arrangements for a periodical publication, creation of a propaganda bureau and insistence that the international president visit all the member countries at least once during his regime were other questions settled at the recent fifth annual congress held in London.

The member countries include France, Great Britain, Belgium, Italy, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, United States, Rumania.

The one ideal of the Fidac is the bringing about of permanent world peace.

Its members having felt war, Colonel Miller, the president, said it has no intention of allowing questions affecting international amity to be discussed without the representation of the veterans. President Miller plans to make extensive speaking tours in member nations and, in a word, concretely express the policies laid down at the last congress. He plans to sail for Europe in December to remain for the remainder of his administration.

Has Seventeen Members —Population Only Ten

There's an American Legion post at Bull Head, S. D., "Barney Brought" post, with a genealogy longer than a giraffe's neck. And speaking of necks, the forebears of members of the post have been cavorting around this neck of the woods, lo, these past five centuries and more. They're all full-blooded Sioux Indians, all 17 of them. Twelve of the 17 braves fought overseas in the World war, where they proved that the term "brave," as applied to men of their blood, is no misnomer, for several of them were cited for gallantry in action.

The fourth dimension, perpetual motion, the music of the spheres had not been solved at this writing, but members of Barney Brought post had solved an equally puzzling phenomenon in that they have pushed the membership of the post to 17, although the total population of Bull Head is ten persons. The mystic necromancy of their forefathers is not responsible for the seemingly impossible in this case, but rather the hard-riding expeditions far into the brush country which have yielded the members above par in membership.

Thomas C. Necklace, a member of the post, was recently elected department historian, and when he isn't busy with the official duties of his office whiles away the leisure hours with Virgil, Shakespeare and Darwin; he is a Carlisle graduate.

Slow in Filing Claims for Government Bonus

According to information furnished American Legion officials by Maj. Gen. Robert G. Davis, adjutant general of the army and in charge of the machinery of handling the federal bonus claims, only 1,300,000 applications out of a possible 4,500,000 had been received up to October 1, 1924. Of the applications received $50,000 had been examined and about 400,000 passed and certificates for the amounts due forwarded to the Veterans' bureau, which will make payments or otherwise compensate as the law provides. General Davis declared in regard to the apathetic attitude displayed by veterans in filing their applications: "It is imperative from the standpoint of economy in administration that those veterans who intend to avail themselves eventually of the benefits conferred by the Adjusted Compensation act should make their application now."

Service Men May Obtain "Northwest Angle" Land

According to advices sent from the United States land office to the state department of the American Legion of Minnesota, the "Northwest Angle," that section of Minnesota that juts up north from the international boundary in the Lake of the Woods region, is to be settled soon. The land office has asked the Legion to call attention to preferential rights of service men in filing on the land. Service men with the colors 19 months can prove up with seven months' residence, whereas those with no military record must live on the land three years. The "Northwest Angle" consists largely of timber land, some of which is said to have considerable value. Fillings are made at the United States land office, Crookston, Minn.

Molasses as Fertilizer

Molasses is being used with rather sensational results as a fertilizer for sugar cane fields in the British island of Mauritius in the Indian ocean. Increases in yield of about nine tons an acre are recorded after molasses applications. The colonial department of agriculture has made a close study of the experiments and has arrived at a tentative explanation. When first applied the molasses partly sterilizes the soil, in consequence of which ordinary soil organisms are, for a time, greatly reduced in numbers while other organisms, notably molds, are stimulated. The nitrification of the soil is suspended and nitrates already in the soil disappear. When the effects of the molasses treatment wear off, nitrification is resumed at an enhanced rate, and apparently leads to an accumulation of nitrates at a time when they can best be utilized by the growing plant. Ammonia and nitrates are said to have a marked tendency to revert to insoluble forms in the soil of the island. Molasses does not increase the rate of nitrogen fixation in the soil.

Banana Fibre Pencils

Banana fibre is being experimented with by European pencil manufacturers as a substitute for the ordinary graphite. The fiber is first burned in retorts, crushed and then mixed with what is technically known as "binding" to give it a gluey consistency and to improve its marking qualities. The whole is then worked up into pulp by machinery, and when partly dry, is crushed again and forced through molds under considerable pressure. The rolls are then baked, cut into lengths and packed with great care in cast-iron crucibles and kept at red heat for two hours. After cooling gently, the "leads" are ready for the wood.

FATHER

"LINE upon line, and precept upon precept," the Good Book says, but that was not altogether father's way. He gave very few directions; he laid down very few rules; he was a man of action rather than of words. It was father's example when I was a boy that influenced me, and it is the memory of his life today that makes me want to be what he was.

I have no recollection that he ever once punished me; and though there was never any doubt that he was the head of the household, matters of our conduct he invariably left to mother, but we knew what he wanted and we should never have thought of going contrary to his desires. None of us children ever got especially intimate with father; I think he did not know how to bring about such an intimacy. He was quiet, serious, rather stern in his methods, but always reasonable, always just, always absolutely sincere.

He was rather rigidly religious and he carried out his religious principles daily in our home life so conscientiously that it never occurred to me that any man would be a religious hypocrite.

He was strangely undemonstrative, but during all the years of my childhood I never knew him to say a critical or an unkind word to mother. She was always right; whatever she did in his eyes was perfect. He was loyal to her from the day they met until the day he died.

He was wonderfully kind to all dumb animals and looked out for them as if they had been his children. He never struck a dog, and he never went to bed on a cold winter night without giving a little extra thought to the condition and comfort of the stock on the farm. In early spring and summer he never allowed us to use the horses on Sunday. They had been working all week and they were entitled to a full day's rest, he argued. The old horses who had done us long years of service, he kept in ease and comfort until they died.

Honesty, kindness, unselfishness, respect for work, loyalty to definite religious principles, he taught me not so much by precept as by the daily life he lived. When I was fifteen, he went out into the great unknown quietly, courageously, with absolute faith in the future. He knew in whom he had believed, and he left to each of us something of his faith.

It is a great heritage to have had a good father; it is a great privilege to keep through youth and early manhood this close relationship with father.

KEEPING WELL

BOBBED HAIR AND COLD

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

MOTHER NATURE has wisely protected the weakest and most vital parts of the human body. Whether you believe with the fundamentalist that this was all done at once by an all-wise Creator, or with the evolutionist, that it gradually developed through countless ages by the survival of the fittest, the result is the same.

All animals have special protection for their throats and backs. The cat and the dog have extra heavy coats under their chins and on the back of their necks. Horses have heavy manes all along the upper part of their spines. Man, naturally, had a beard in front of the throat and long hair on the head and over the back of the neck.

Civilization and fashion have abolished beards and long hair, leaving the back of the neck exposed to cold drafts.

In some cases, not only is the hair cut short, but the neck is shaved, leaving the skin exposed, without covering or protection.

Everybody knows that there is nothing so sure to produce a "cold" as a draft of cold air on the back of the neck. The cold itself is caused by germs, which ordinarily the body can resist. But the sudden chilling following a blast of cold air on the unprotected skin will often lower the bodily resistance, so that the germs can get a start.

We have often roasted the flapper for wearing thin silk stockings and short skirts with a fur coat in winter. But there's really something to be said for her. The arms and legs can stand a lot of cold, so long as the trunk and especially the back is kept warm. It's the sudden exposure of a vital part of the body to cold air that it is not accustomed to that does damage.

Bobbing the hair is, in many ways, a commendable fashion. There's no reason except custom why a woman should wear long hair any more than a man. But women have worn long hair for many centuries and their bodies are not accustomed to bare and unprotected napes.

So bob your hair if you want to, but during the winter protect the back of your neck with a light scarf. Don't muffle up your throat, but give the back of your neck an artificial protection to take the place of the natural one you left in the barber shop.

Dust Used as Evidence

The French police are making a microscopic examination of dirt found upon the clothing of suspected criminals. After cross-examination the suspects are stripped of their clothing, whose surface dust is first examined under a strong microscope. A vacuum cleaner is next applied to draw out other dirt into a pan. In some instances heating is used to separate foreign matter. From the dirt thus secured the detectives determine whether the suspect has been telling the truth. One murderer tried to prove an alibi by saying that he had slept in an open field the night of the crime. Microscopic examination of his clothing showed that he had slept in a quarry. A carpenter was connected with a murder by means of sawdust found on a piece of overalls which the victim had torn from his assailant and which was found at the scene of the crime. The value of the plan has been in breaking down the bravado of criminals. They frequently confess when shown that their first stories were lies.

Long Time in Space

A number of vicious mules had just arrived at the camp and a new recruit made the common mistake of approaching too near to the business end of one of them. His comrades caught him on the rebound, combed him on a stretcher and started off for the hospital.

On the way the invalid regained consciousness, gazed at the blue sky overhead, experienced the swaying motion as he was being carried along, and shakily lowered his hands over the sides, only to feel space.

"My land," he groaned, "I ain't hit the ground yet!"

Eating From Cans

Due to the tremendous demand for foods packed so that they could be easily shipped, the World War with its huge orders for corned Willie and many other goods was the greatest impetus the canning industry has had since its introduction in America in 1815.

In 1914 the value of all canned food products here was placed at $243,000,000. Today it is well above the $600,000,000 mark. Peaches are said to be the most popular of canned fruits and salmon leads among the sea foods.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Prince Introduced Snail

Prince Talleyrand Perigord seems to have been responsible for the introduction to the French of the snail as a delicacy. He was giving a dinner to the Emperor Alexander I of Russia and raked his own brains, as well as those of Anacreon, the cleverest chef of his age, to discover a new and exotic dish. Suddenly the prince remembered an exquisite concoction of snails which he had eaten in Vienna. The dish achieved instantaneous success, and was remained a favorite delicacy in France ever since.

Village's Odd Name

Some of the first settlers of the village of Penn Yan were from Pennsylvania, while others were known as New England Yankees. A discussion arose as to the name of the village, and both parties were satisfied by the adoption of the present name, Penn Yan, made up from the first syllables of Pennsylvania and Yankee.

SCHOOL NOTES

Washington Township Serves Hot Lunch to Pupils Under Weight.

Semester examinations were given to the pupils on Thursday and Friday of last week. Viona Smith, Clara Burkhardt, Karl Brown and Ruth Young were excused from all examinations for excellent scholarship in all branches.

The second semester began Monday morning. Social Problems will be given to high school juniors instead of economics and civics will be submitted for American history.

The board of education met Monday, January 5 and organized for the year. H. E. Leist was again chosen president. D. C. Heffner, vice president and Clay Hitler was elected secretary-clerk.

Friday night will be School Night at Pontius church. Each pupil is expected to be there if they can. Parents are invited to attend with their children.

The grange installed their officers Friday night. Among the officers were Marvene Leist and Goldie Bolender high school pupils.

The school will conduct an old cloths campaign this week. Any people who have old clothing they cannot use, please notify the principal and they will be called for. The clothing will be used for children in the township.

An invitation was given the parents at the Grange Friday night to visit the school. This invitation is extended to all the parents and friends of the pupils. The teachers wish that more parents might visit the school and see the work that is being done.

A hot lunch for all pupils is the aim of Washington township school. The members of the Grange contributed about $28 to feed those children who need the hot lunch and cannot afford it. This step is a wise one and the teachers thank those who so generously gave it. It was pointed out that a very large number of pupils were under weight and many had reached the danger line. It was also pointed out that only a few of those underweight were able to buy their lunch.

Battle of San Jacinto.

The battle of San Jacinto was fought April 21, 1836, between 1,600 Mexicans under Santa Anna and 800 Americans under Sam Houston. Santa Anna was defeated and he and 750 of his men were captured, 630 killed and 208 wounded. The Texan loss was 2 killed and 23 wounded. This battle decided the independence of Texas, and the day is observed in the state as a holiday.

Advance Made During Span of Four Lives

In the eleventh month of his ninety-third year G. W. Baldwin, Yale, '53, wrote a letter to the secretary of the Yale Alumni fund on March 26 last, which contains a statement well worth reflection, says the Independent. Mr. Baldwin said:

"I have argued cases before Chief Justice Lemuel Shaw of Massachusetts, who died at the age of eighty-five. He once said in my presence and hearing that he had talked with a man who had talked with Peregrine White, who was born on the Mayflower in 1620."

These four lives span the history of America from the landing of the pilgrims to the present. Peregrine White's father died in that first terrible winter at Plymouth; his mother's subsequent marriage to Governor Winslow was the first wedding of Europeans in New England. Peregrine himself lived to be eighty-four, remaining "vigorous and of comely aspect to the last," as one of his contemporaries delightfully described the original Mayflower descendant.

Between the death of Peregrine White at Marshfield, Mass., in 1704, and the birth of Lemuel Shaw at Barnstable in 1781 stretch some forty miles and seventy-seven years. It is a pity that the chief justice did not identify the octogenarian who as a small child talked to the still comely Peregrine at Marshfield about 1703, and who in 1785 or thereabouts, himself nearing ninety, passed word of that meeting along to young Shaw at Barnstable. But though that ancient worthy is unidentified, the incident is entirely credible.

A chain of only four lives connects the Mayflower and the giant dirigibles that cross in two days an ocean upon which the weary pilgrims were tossed for seventy-five days. The beginnings of America are thus brought intimately near.

Yet it is even more significant to reflect that only the last of these four lives covers the transition from sail and horse to railroad, motorcar, airplane and dirigible. Chief Justice Shaw traveled no more swiftly in his youth than did Peregrine White. The competent industrialism of our day would be almost as foreign to one as to the other. The acceleration of civilization, as measured in human triumphs over time and space is seldom to be visualized so sharply as in this contrast.

Soldiers Carry Umbrellas

About 8,500 Chinese umbrellas were shipped from Peking for the use of the Kiangsu soldiers in the fighting in the Shanghai district. Witnesses say that one soldier digs trenches while another holds an umbrella over him, and marching soldiers, in couples, take turns at carrying umbrellas.

REPORT FINDING OF MAYAN THRONE ROOM

Excavators Uncover Royal Relic in Buried City.

Advices received at Washington from the archeological expedition of the Carnegie Institute to Yucatan say that the excavators at work on the ruins of Chichen Itza have penetrated to the throne of the king, perhaps the most magnificent spot within the columns of the buried chief city of the prehistoric Mayan empire.

The throne is a magnificent affair, thirteen feet wide, seven feet deep and three feet high. On the sloping sides are carved elaborately costumed warriors, weaving in and out among which are serpents, sacred to Kukulcan, principal god of the Itza. The throne was painted in deep red, warm yellow, brilliant blue and green.

The throne and council chamber were found in the northeast colonnade of the buried city. The excavators were guided in their work by four sculptured columns, the rest of the 45 which compose this colonnade being plain. The walls and plain columns were painted with frescoes in bright colors, now almost entirely destroyed. The floors were of half lime plaster, painted a rich red. Around the back and side walls runs a deep, broad bench with sloping back, where perhaps the Itza dignitaries, priests and counselors sat in solemn deliberation with the king seated on his throne.

Another very important discovery has been the outer wall of the colonnade with its sculptural decorations injured, in position at the southwest corner. This shows the original height of the building to have been 19 1/2 feet. Around the top of the building there had been a sculptured cornice. Below this there were two great, grotesque human heads with square eye sockets, curling noses, filed teeth set in grinning mouths, and square earrings. These are representations of none less than Kukulcan himself. Below is another cornice.

Life in Chichen Itza, however, was not entirely one of grotesque reverence to Kukulcan. The Carnegie Institute excavators announce the uncovering of a ball court just north of the throne location in which a game similar to the American basketball was played. The game, which was introduced by the Toltec-Aztec conquerors of the city, had for its object the driving of a solid rubber ball through a ring fastened in the side of the wall. The court just uncovered is the third to be discovered in the "New" Mayan empire.

The game was known as "tlachtli." The hole through the ring being perpendicular to the wall, it was necessary to stand very close to the wall and throw the ball practically parallel to the axis of the wall. The ball would not be thrown directly with the hand, but had to be struck with the elbow, wrist or hip. The players wore leather pads on these parts to make the rubber ball bound from them more easily.

The winning shot was so difficult and so seldom made, that, according to another rule of the game, the lucky player had forfeited to him all the clothing of the spectators.

At the court of Montezuma, where the game first was witnessed by the Spaniards, high stakes were wagered on the game by the Aztec nobles—quills filled with gold dust, estates, even liberty, the bettors becoming slaves if they lost. It is notable that from the balls used in this game the Spaniards gained their first conception of rubber.

The excavating work has been brought to an end for the year, due to the rainy season, which prevents any operations for the greater part of the time.

"Sleepy" Schools

The establishment of a school for sleepy children who seem unable to keep awake in their classrooms is being discussed by the London county council education committee. The school would be given special ventilation and the lessons would be taught in a way to "awaken" interest in the somnolent children.

No More Invitations

I had been working for a concern for some time, and was often invited to the executive's home for dinner.

After dinner one evening, when we were sitting in the library, he appeared with an enormous album, and brought it to me showing me a picture of his sister, the other one being his Cousin Kate.

Finally he said, "And this is my wife's first husband."

"My, what a peculiar looking person!" I exclaimed. "But your wife never mentioned being married before."

"No!" he replied, "I happen to be her first husband."—Chicago Tribune.

"Veni, Vidi, Vici"

By PHILIP E. STEVENSON

(© by Western Newspaper Union.)

"I KNOW just what you're going to tell me," I said to my friend Andre, whom I saw looking at me with his confidential smile. "Of course you are in the midst of another affair of the heart, and it was in this cafe that—" "I met her!" Andre finished for me. "Yes! Precisement!"

We sat, my friend and I, at one of the outdoor tables, on the Avenue de Clichy, Paris—table at which I had listened to so many of Andre's tales of conquest. For Andre was handsome, romantic, foolish and impulsive enough to make an ideal lover.

"Well, what is she this time?" I asked. "Seems to me you've been tangled up in everything but an actress. Thank goodness, you've been original enough to escape so far."

"To begin with," said Andre, "she is an actress." I could not help giving a start. "But oh! mon ami, if only you—" "Wait! Wait!" I cried, recovering my senses. "Are you sure that you could not sum up the entire experience in three words as usual?" Andre raised his brows. "I mean, 'Veni, vidi, vici'?"

Here Andre lapsed into French to tell me, with a mad enthusiasm, that Ginette's hair was like wavelets on the Seine beneath dark woods at twilight; her eyes, reflections of Sirius in a quiet pool; her lips, lily-petals stained with the innocent blood of a child.

"Yes! I was in love. It was a squash—no, a—what is 'beguin' in English? Yes, a crush—love at first sight, and when I escorted her home I asked if I might come in. I was half prepared for a refusal (after all, she knew me so little!), but she dazed me by her answer: 'Oh, monsieur, it is so late, mother will be in bed.'"

"Figure yourself. An actress, living in Montmartre, saying such a thing. I had thought such virtue existed only in bad novels, not in bad actresses. But I saw her again last week in front of a jewelry shop on the rue de la Paix. It was only a hump—no, a hunch, that had brought me there. I lifted my hat and inquired what interested her, and surprised her into a truthful answer: 'That little—wedding ring—there, monsieur, underneath the pendant. But refusing to take such a naive answer for less than profound punning, I raked up a cynicism. 'Remember, mademoiselle,' I said, 'the proverb which says that the marriage ceremony is the burial service of love.'"

"But—would you believe it? her eyes only filled with tears, and she said: 'Then love is not for me, monsieur. . . . Yet you are wrong, wrong!' And she saved herself—no, fled."

"I was sour—I mean, sore. I would have her yet. She would surrender to me, Andre. Fancy her teaching me life. Pah!"

Andre stopped, pinching his nose again with his long fingers, suddenly thoughtful. As for me, I was disgusted with his story. Always before Andre had dealt with victims who understood and welcomed his intentions; but this time the affair had the flavor of seduction.

"I see you are impatient," he continued at last. "I shall briefly note our little dinner together soon after, and the taxi ride to her house when I found she loved me. Now she lay trembling in my arms like a frightened bird . . . refusing to admit . . . Followed another rhapsody in French, voluble, brilliant, agitated. "Yesterday I met her again and consented to meet her mother. Figure yourself. She left me in the flat with her old mother while she went out to buy some jam for tea. Madame Dore is one of those admirable little old women of Brittany that you associate with fog and melancholy tiny fishing villages; she was sturdy and eternal, with a mixture of simplicity and wisdom in her eyes."

"I began by complimenting her on her daughter, and she launched forth into a tirade: 'Oh, monsieur!'—and she joined her hands—'she is all my life, my comfort, since my Jules, my husband, died. She has told me—and about that dreadful day at the Lapin. She likes you, monsieur, much. And what a darling wife—"

"Do you perceive? The same thing again! Yet—I was not angry, only quiet, thoughtful, I do not know why. . . . When it was time to leave, my plans were all 'ranged. . . . Ah! but I am stupid, stupid, and of a stupidity." Andre seemed crestfallen. "I might have told the story in three words after all. You see, I—"

"Came," I supplied. "I saw," said he. "You conquered," I said dryly; but I thought, "seduced."

"Concurred," he said. "But you mean 'conquered.'"

"I mean 'concurrent.'"

"You mispronounced," I asserted with touchy shortness, and spelled the word out for him.

"Precisely wrong," said Andre, smiling broadly. "Does not 'concur' mean 'agree' or 'act in concert'? You, an American, should know. Pah! wake up, mon cher!" he cried, punching me from across the table. "Nom de mom, now you are stupid! I am going to marry her, and I want you to see me through!"

Some minutes later I was brought to with the stream of a siphon and, still laughing, Andre led me out into the air.

Depends

"Willie, how much is 4 and 4?"
"It depends. In school it's 8, but when dad prints it it's 44—his a sign painter."

Central Cooling

The new system of central cooling, which has been perfected by experiments in the School of Tropical Medicine, Calcutta, may prove a key which will open up the great potential treasure-house of the tropics. By this system a special "cool room" can be kept at a temperature from 20 to 30 degrees below the outside heat. This is done by a forced supply of air, which is passed over the pipes of a refrigerating plant before it reaches the room, while the relatively hot air already in it is drawn out. The room is specially insulated by cork. Experiments over a period of two years prove the efficiency of the "cool room," and also that one can pass between it and the warmer air outside without any injurious effect on health.

Gems of Fabulous Value

One of the most wonderful, privately owned collection of gems in the world, is the property of Mr. Abdul Cafoor, an Indian gem collector. The collection embraces two immense sapphires, one priced at $80,000, a bag of 8,000 pearls, an aquamarine as large as an apple, a $50,000 cat's-eye set in diamonds, a string of pearls which took 30 years to complete, and sapphires the size of plums! This is not an inventory of the treasures in Aladdin's cave, but merely an accurate description of a few of the jewels belonging to this noted collector. The queen of Rumania and the king and queen of Norway are among the few who have seen the collection, which is guarded night and day.

Dayton, O., Jan. 12.—Lieutenant John A. MacReady will become chief of the McCook field flying section in a few days on the withdrawal of Lieutenant Harold H. Harris from the air service for one year.

Dayton, O., Jan. 12.—A rattlesnake five feet long as large around as a man's arm, out in the road sunning himself was run over today and killed by Charles Wilson, a truck driver.

WHEN CUTTING GRASS WAS A REAL HAZARD

This armored car is used for cutting the grass on the crowded municipal links at Lincoln park, near San Francisco, Cal. The car had to be screened once it became necessary to cut the grass while the links were in use and no driver would risk the job without this protection. With the heavy screen the car is the target many times for the players.

STORAGE BATTERY OFTEN NEGLECTED

Continue in Healthy Condition It Must Be Properly Cared For.

ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago. Many motorists do not realize the importance of the storage battery until it fails them unexpectedly. It is a natural characteristic of a storage battery to fail to function properly after it has delivered a certain amount of energy. This failure may manifest itself in many ways, but the average motorist uses his battery as long as possible and does not look for these manifestations until finally a battery quits.

The storage battery is intended to do a certain amount of work. It is giving a certain amount of energy. Therefore, to continue in a healthy condition it must be properly used and cared for. There must be a proper balance between charging and discharging, if the car is to operate satisfactorily.

Use of Car Far Above Normal.

If the continuous use to which the battery is put is far above normal, the battery may be likened to a man who works heartily but gets little exercise. In such follows, and if the condition continues, battery apoplexy is sure to result. An overcharged battery heats rapidly and if the driver does not use it sufficient use to balance the charging he must compensate somehow, either by decreasing the charge or by increasing the battery's work. If the battery is overcharged, the remedy is to exercise it by turning on the lights when driving. This will increase the battery's work.

One of the most harmful conditions to guard against in summer is overcharging. This condition always is due to one or more of the following causes:

Lack of Water Harmful.

Neglect to keep the battery filled with pure distilled water is one of the greatest evils and will shorten its life quicker than anything else.

If the level of the water is permitted to reach a point below the top of the plates, the upper portion is left exposed and useless. If only half of the surface of the plates is covered by the solution, a normal charging rate is equivalent to twice the volume of current which should go through the covered portion. This causes rapid overheating and damage not seen at the time, but which results in a considerable expense later.

Batteries are so constructed that they play an important part in their destruction. Therefore it is not advisable to spend much money on repairing an old battery. Buy a new one and have a fresh start.

Some conditions might justify purchasing a good reliable second-hand battery, if such a thing is possible. Second-hand batteries usually are appropriate for the "wise guy." Generally it is a good plan to pass them up.

Hints Worth Remembering in Care of Motor Cars

Most engine ills are caused by dirt and improper lubrication. Good oil should be purchased from a reliable concern and used regularly. If the engine is kept clean any leak in the lubricating system can be detected at once. This is but one of the many reasons why an engine should be kept scrupulously clean.

Allow the rain curtains to dry unattended. This will enable them to shrink a little, thus assuring a better fit when they are fastened on again. Undoing the lower fasteners will suffice.

A car that is very frequently washed requires considerable attention to the matter of spring lubrication. The springs will sometimes receive more water during a washing than during a rain in the rain.

There should be sufficient lighting in every private garage to enable the driver to see whether the ammeter registers neither charge nor discharge when the car's lights are switched off and the engine stopped. Use a flash light if necessary. Should the generator cut-out points stick together, current from the battery would discharge back into the generator with consequent damage to both units. You can't be sure about this if you always leave the car in total darkness after switching off its own lights.

Use Homemade Jacks for Lifting Up End of Car

When working on the rear end of an automobile, or under it, it is usually necessary to jack up one end of the car to provide more space to work. The illustration shows a pair of simple homemade jacks for this purpose. They are made of 2 by 6-inch unplanned lumber, and constructed as shown in the upper figure, each consisting of a 2 by 6-inch base, two support blocks, and a top board of the same material. The top board is pivoted on one of the support blocks by means of a piece of 1/2-inch iron pipe, loosely held in place by large staples; it must be about twice as long as the base and beveled at one end as shown, this end being slightly heavier than the other so that the board will fall to the position indicated in the upper figure.

The jacks are placed close to the wheels at the front or rear, and the car driven on. A hook is provided on one support block to keep the top board down, and a short length of iron pipe or rod, fitting loosely in holes drilled through the sides of the top, prevents the wheels from running off the jack while the work is being done, thus making the work perfectly safe.—F. S. Root, Fall River, Mass. in the Popular Mechanics Magazine.

To Prevent "Hot Box" Watch Wheel Bearings

A cracking sound coming from the hub indicates something wrong in the wheel bearings. Unless this is promptly attended to a burnt-up wheel bearing may result and there is danger of what drivers call a "hot box," which is likely to lock the wheel on to the axle or burn the axle in half, permitting the wheel to roll off. Imagine what would happen if this should occur on a down grade with a heavily loaded truck. When this cracking sound from the hub becomes audible the driver should put his hand on the hub and if he finds it hot he should carefully examine the bearings. Probably he will find a couple of the rollers cracked or broken. If this is so he should drive slowly and carefully to the nearest place where they can be replaced.

Retard Spark to a Low Point Before Starting

"Every owner operating a car bearing battery ignition should always retard the spark to a low point before attempting to operate the starting motor," says the director of a motor service station. "Otherwise, a backfire is liable to occur, resulting in either a broken engine arm or a damaged starting motor bracket. Drivers of cars of this type should also throw out the clutch before connecting the starting motor switch. When the clutch is thrown out, the transmission load is released, which, during the cold period, is an important factor in the life of the battery and the successful operation of the starting motor. No car should ever be started with the clutch engaged."

Hinges Need Oiling

Door hinges are often neglected. A drop of oil on the hinges and locks now and then will help lengthen the lives of both.

When a door has to be slammed shut because the hinges are rusty or the lock action is stiff, it shakes and strains the body. Oil the hinges and locks now and then, but be careful to wipe off all surplus so that it will not get on your clothes when entering car.
